

League Offers Plan to Slash Property Taxes Over 20 Million

Income, Estate, Luxury and Chain Store Levies
CONS GET PLAN
10 Per Cent Surtax on Normal Income Tax Included

Madison—(AP)—The League of Wisconsin Municipalities offered its legislature today a plan to re-general property taxes more than $20,000,000 a year by substituting new state levies on individual incomes, inheritances, luxuries and stores.

The league's program, given to legislators at a dinner last night, proposed that revenues from the taxes be returned to local government to cover part of the social security, relief, high and street maintenance costs now paid.

The largest of the levies is a 100 per cent surtax on the normal state income tax, which would be assessed, it cuts the ordinary taxes in half and more than doubles the average citizen's income tax bill. It would affect many who now pay no income at all, but would not apply to corporations.

7 New Tax Proposals
The program includes seven new taxes which are entirely new, affect virtually everybody, would be collected on cigars, soft drinks, patent medicines, soft drinks, chewing gum, cosmetics, movies and theater admissions. The state has never entered the field of taxation.

Other suggestions provide for a 10 per cent surtax on the normal state income tax assessed in 1935 against the earnings of Wisconsin corporations, utility earnings, property and inheritances. These levies end next June unless they are acted on.

In addition the league asked the legislature to turn over to local units an slice of $2,500,000 annually from motor vehicle revenues for highway and street purposes.

The recommendations were based on the following estimates of costs for the next year:

Cost of the social security surtax—$5,700,000.
Cost of relief expenditures—$2,000,000.
Additional state school aids—$3,000,000.
Highway aids—$2,500,000.

The league estimated the following returns from the proposed levies:

Income security and relief—$1,500,000.
Surtax on incomes—$5,500,000.
Division of normal income tax to increase evenly by one per cent steps—$1,000,000.
10 per cent tax on dividends of Wisconsin corporations—$2,000,000.
Luxury taxes, similar to the current luxury levy—$250,000.
Levy ranging from 4 per cent on inheritances under $25,000 to 20 per cent on estates over $1,500,000—$1,000,000.

Other Tax Proposals
The league also re-enacted of the existing chain store tax—$1,250,000.
20 per cent retail tax on patent medicines—$500,000.
Levy of half a cent per bottle on soft drinks, with an equivalent tax on beer.

Refusal to Quit Plants Is Chief Bar to Confabs

More Plants Prepare to Close as Result of Automobile Strike

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Perkins said today occupation of Fisher Body plants in Flint, Mich., by sit-down strikers was the "principal barrier" to resumption of negotiations between the General Motors corporation and the United Automobile Workers.

Before resuming her efforts to bring corporation officials and the union together, Miss Perkins told reporters that one of the main reasons for the failure of Governor Murphy's proposed negotiations in Detroit to materialize had been the "sit-down strike."

William S. Knudsen, General Motors vice president, notified the Flint Alliance—composed of non-union employees—Saturday night that he would confer with them.

The United Automobile Workers immediately accused General Motors of "bad faith" and the negotiations scheduled for Monday did not take place.

The union then refused to evacuate the Flint plants.

Since Monday, Miss Perkins said, the corporation has agreed not to negotiate with any group other than the auto union for the time being.

Detroit—(AP)—The eyes of the automotive world fastened on Washington today as conferences seeking a solution of the United Automobile Workers' strike in General Motors plants were resumed.

Homer Martin, president of the union, and John Brophy, director of the committee for industrial organization, left on a night train for the national capital at the bidding of John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O., which is supporting the strike.

Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan and high executives of General Motors from its Detroit and New York offices also were in Washington, where they conferred together with Secretary of Labor Perkins.

The number of idle employees of the corporation rose to 135,000 with the strike.

Roosevelt Asks Continuance Of Reciprocal Trade Policy

Says It Helps Promote 'Durable Peace' and 'Balanced Recovery'

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt urged congress today to continue the administration reciprocal trade treaty program as a means of promoting "durable peace" and a "balanced economic recovery."

His appeal was made in a letter to Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee, before which Secretary Hull appeared in person to ask passage of a measure extending the trade policy three years.

Mr. Roosevelt said the nation's "vigorous initiative in the field of liberalization of commercial policies" has been an important factor in arresting the world trend toward national economic isolation, which seemed almost irresistible three years ago.

Asserting the task was by no means finished, Mr. Roosevelt said "emergency conditions" still exist in international trade relations and excessive barriers continue to operate against American trade.

"Their reduction," he wrote, "continues to be an essential requirement of a full and balanced economic recovery for our country."

World Peace Factor
"In the period which lies immediately ahead, our ability to act swiftly and effectively in the field of commercial policy will be indispensable, if the present favorable and promising trend toward a normalization and expansion of international trade, upon a friendly and constructive basis of fair-dealing and equal treatment, is to go forward."

Of even greater importance, Mr. Roosevelt said, was the effect of liberalizing trade practices on international peace.

"Economic strife, resulting from inordinate or discriminatory trade barriers," the president said, "is one of the most fruitful sources of political animosity and military conflict."

"A policy designed to reduce excessive trade barriers and to establish equality of trade rights is a powerful instrument of economic appeasement and stability. It thus serves to strengthen the foundations of world peace."

"In the present unfortunate state of world affairs, we dare not, in justice to ourselves, relax our effort."

Council Votes To Bond City For $480,000

Approve Minimum Wage Scale for Workers on New Senior High School

EXTEND TAX TIME
Reduce Beer and Liquor Licenses Applied for After Jan. 1

What Council Did:

Voted to bond the city for $480,000 to build a new senior high school.

Approved minimum wage scale for workmen on the school project.

Extended tax payment time to March 1.

Made 50 per cent reduction in beer and liquor licenses applied for after Jan. 1.

Heard mayor charge street department with failing to cooperate when asked to spread sand or ashes on walks. (Story on page 2.)

A resolution to bond the city for $480,000 to build a new senior high school was adopted by the common council last night by a 9 to 3 vote.

Aldermen Brautigam, Knuijt and Steinhauer were opposed.

A minimum wage scale for workmen on the new school project, recommended by the school board, also was approved unanimously.

Alderman Steinhauer suggested that the scale be checked for possible errors but Alderman Vogt explained that the matter had been thoroughly discussed by representatives of the Appleton Trades and Labor council and the school board.

Persons applying for beer or liquor licenses after Jan. 1 will receive a 50 per cent reduction, the council decided in voting such an amendment to the beer and liquor ordinance.

The council was notified by the school board that it expected to stay within the appropriation limits in building the new senior high school but pointed out that the delay since the request for the school grant would make it difficult because of increased building costs.

Wounded Man Quizzed In Slaying of Wife
Foster City, Mich.—(AP)—Mrs. Edward Oman was shot to death and her two-year-old son, Gordon, was wounded in their home here last night. County authorities said Oman did the shooting, then fled from the house and seriously wounded himself.

At the Iron Mountain General hospital, Oman's condition was reported critical today. A shotgun charge had entered his head.

County officers said three other Oman children ran to the home of neighbors and urged them to "come quick; pa killed ma." The officers said the children apparently did not witness the shooting and could not recount what had occurred.

Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence College, will be installed as eleventh president of Brown university, Providence, R. I., at ceremonies in Sayles Hall, the university chapel, at 4 o'clock Wednesday, Feb. 3. Acting President James P. Adams is chairman of the committee in charge of the installation.

Coming to New England's third oldest university after 11 years as chief executive of Lawrence, Dr. Wriston will succeed Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, who died last week. Dr. Wriston was formally elected to the presidency of Brown on Oct. 9 by vote of the corporation after Dr. Barbour's decision to retire.

The installation ceremonies will be simple. Dr. Wriston will be inducted into office by Chancellor Henry D. Sharpe, and will also "take his engagement" from the Senior Fellow. The incoming president will be welcomed by Acting President Adams. Dr. Wriston's address will conclude the ceremonies.

An academic procession across Brown's historic Middle campus, where French soldiers drilled during the revolution, will precede the exercises. Approximately 800 will attend by invitation, representing the corporation and faculty, undergraduates, graduate students and alumni and alumnae.

Prisoner Denies Killing Michigan State Policeman
Pleads Not Guilty Despite Alleged Confession To Officers

Monroe, Mich.—(AP)—Alcide "French" Benoit, 24, pleaded innocent in municipal court today on a charge of shooting to death State Policeman Richards F. Hammond. He waived examination and Municipal Judge John P. Faucher ordered him held for trial.

The court room, jammed with spectators, was hushed for several minutes as Benoit talked with the judge. Benoit's plea surprised some police officers, who announced last night they had obtained an oral confession from the former convict that he killed Hammond and strangled his body to a rural mailbox.

Benoit was captured last night by four state policemen.

John H. Smith, companion of Benoit, was arraigned on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He waived examination and was bound over to circuit court under $10,000 bond for appearance Saturday.

County Prosecutor Francis Ready announced the confession of the 24-year-old black-haired gunman shortly after Benoit's desperate game of hide-and-seek over sleek-covered country areas with officers of three states and the federal government ended in Monroe—a short distance from the spot where he abducted Trooper Hammond at midnight Tuesday.

Halt Stolen Car
Hammond and Trooper Sam Sineni halted a stolen car occupied by Benoit and John H. Smith, 20, alias Delbert, and decided to take the pair to headquarters for questioning in connection with the abduction of Fred Williams, a Detroit used car salesman, who was left tied to a tree at Toledo early Tuesday night.

"I got into the patrol car with the officer (Hammond), Benoit orally confessed to Prosecutor Ready, State Police Captain Lawrence A. Lyon and Sheriff Joseph J. Bailey. Sineni and Smith followed in the seized automobile.

California Woman Is Found Beaten to Death

Oakland, Calif.—(AP)—The body of a young woman who had been beaten to death was found near Mills college today. A book bore the typewritten name of Anita Botehlo.

The girl was believed to have been about 20 years old. Her clothes had been ripped from her body.

The book found near the body also bore the address 1335 Seminary avenue. Police went to the address and were told by Mrs. Hazel Sciarini, 41, she believed the girl was her daughter. She said Botehlo was her daughter's married name, and that the girl was separated from her husband.

Police reported the girl still was breathing when found by WPA workers, but that she died enroute to a hospital.

Assembly Bill Would Put All State Liquor Agents Under Civil Service

Madison—(AP)—The assembly, in a brief session today, received a proposal to place all liquor tax agents and inspectors of the beverage tax division under civil service.

The division is now undergoing an upheaval under the administration of State Treasurer Sol Levitan, who has charge of it. Old employees, not protected by civil service standing, are being dismissed and new men hired to take their places.

Assemblyman Thomson (R), Richland Center, offered a bill requiring competitive examinations for the numerous jobs in the department and forcing the director to fill the jobs from lists of eligible applicants certified by the bureau of personnel. Under this plan all of Levitan's appointees would have to compete in examinations.

An aftermath of the dispute between Glenn Frank, deceased president of the University of Wisconsin and Progressive regents came today in a bill depriving the next university president of board voting rights. It was introduced by Assemblyman Hall (P), Superior.

Dr. Frank was an ex-officio member of the board of regents. He tangled with the board on one occasion when Regent Chairman Harold Wilkie disputed his right to break a tie vote that developed on question involving his administrative policies. Hall's bill would make Dr. Frank's successor purely an appointee.

Mayor Deplores Icy Condition Of Streets, Walks

Charges Street Department With Failing to Co-operate With Request

Mayor Goodland charged the street department with failing to cooperate when he requested that sand or ashes be put on slippery sidewalks and declared that the condition of the sidewalks and streets during the last two weeks was a disgrace to the city, at a meeting of the common council last night.

A lengthy discussion on street and sidewalk conditions because of unusual weather conditions was held by the aldermen but no action was taken.

The mayor said he felt it was the city's job to spread ashes and that such work should not be charged to property owners. Ashes could be secured from the schools, he said, and a truck with two men could sprinkle them along the center of many slippery walks within a short time.

Conditions Dangerous
Accumulated snow should be removed so that conditions such as exist in front of the post office are eliminated, he said. A hard ridge of snow makes it risky for any person trying to climb over it from the street, he said.

"Slippery streets should be sanded and under icy conditions, which have been prevalent in the city this winter, extra men should be put to work on the streets," Alderman Steinhauser said in urging that sand be spread on College avenue by workers of the street department.

Business men would be willing to pay in order to have their walks sprinkled with sand, he went on, and as many extra workmen as needed should be added to snow removal crews immediately after snow storms to open cross walks.

He said he was not criticizing the street department but added that economy should not be practiced by the department when unusual conditions must be dealt with.

Doing Good Work
Alderman Thompson claimed that the street department was doing better work than in any time past and that it was impossible to keep streets from becoming icy under the unusual weather experienced this winter.

People did not realize that many streets were sanded a number of times and that the sand had frozen under after mild spells, he said. It would be impossible to keep all sidewalks in the city sprinkled, he added.

Saying that if College avenue were sanded the same work should be done on all city streets, Alderman Vogt opposed having city crews sprinkling walks and said each property owner should take care of his own. A little cooperation from the property owners would prevent slippery conditions such as exist on parts of Prospect avenue, he said.

"You can't depend upon the public to keep their walks sanded or sprinkled with ashes unless the work is done under supervision," Alderman Grignon said. "The surest way would be to have the city take care of the work but this would result in many residents, who are now taking care of their walks, leaving the job to street department workers."

Equipment Busy
Lloyd M. Schneider, city engineer, said that half the equipment of street department has been continually at work sanding streets and removing accumulated snow. There are more than 100 miles of streets in the city to be taken care of, he said, and clearing intersections was most important after the streets were plowed. He claimed that conditions in Appleton were much better than found in many other towns.

"It would be impossible to keep the 150 miles of sidewalks in the city sanded," he said. "Part of College avenue and Lawrence street were sanded a few days ago and immediately the street department was deluged with calls from persons on Wisconsin avenue and elsewhere to have the same done on their streets."

Dog Show Held by 1st Grade Pupils at Columbus School

It all started out to be a menagerie, but it was too cold for love birds and the cat needed a bath, so it turned into a dog show in the first grade room of the Columbus school.

The children received permission from their teacher, Miss Elaine Jones, to "bring their pets." Four little dog fanciers, Patricia Monaghan, Robert Bruyette, Harold Krueger and Tom McGinnis brought their animals and tethered them to chairs and desks.

Two love birds and a cat, also scheduled for appearances, couldn't come for reasons stated earlier. Miss Jones asked her pupils to describe the new visitors. The class collectively turned author and submitted the following:

"Four dogs visited school today. Their names were Blackie, Toby, Mr. Muggins and Ben. "Blackie was a baby hound, Toby was a rat terrier, Mr. Muggins was a Boston bulldog, and Ben was a Scotty."

"They played and barked in school."

Study Legislative Needs of Farmers

Prepare Program to be Presented to Congressmen

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—Legislative needs of Wisconsin farmers will be presented to congressmen, the Department of Agriculture, and relief agencies here early in February, according to representatives of the Northwest Farmers' union.

Several members of that organization's legislative committee, representing Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana are preparing a program which they will discuss with government leaders as soon as Congress gets well underway.

Of chief interest to dairy farmers is a measure to obtain a revolving fund for the purpose of taking burdensome surpluses off the market at peak production periods. Representatives from other dairy regions are primarily interested in crop insurance, according to one source.

Continued relief for drought-stricken farmers and other rural relief is one of the chief items in the program it is reported, along with the matter of foreclosure on farmers who have been unable to meet federal loans.

Pupils Write Letters To Local Postmaster

Every pupil in the second grade room at Columbus school is writing a letter to Postmaster Stephen Balliet this week, but he'll get only the one which the teacher, Miss Josephine Patten, decides is the best.

The second graders toured the post office last week. In connection with their language studies, Miss Patten has asked each to write a letter to the postmaster, thanking him for the courtesy and telling him the things they saw. The best letter will be mailed.

After dispatching with their correspondence, the pupils will throw all their energies back into the pictures of Eskimo people and life which they are now drawing.

The winner of the William B. Heiss contest will receive a trophy. Sprague said today that the students will select their subjects before the end of this week.

County Police Warn Against Coasting On Public Highways

A plea for cooperation of parents as well as children in helping to eliminate the practice of coasting on public highways was made today by Captain Charles Steidl of the county highway police force.

Although roads may be in good condition for coasting, both sleds and automobiles may be unable to stop in time to avoid accidents and injuries or loss of life may result, Steidl warned.

Another traffic hazard about which complaints have been made recently is the practice of parking on the highways rather than pulling out of the lane of traffic, he stated.

The school board was asked recently by the council to make an official expression that it would stay within the limits of the appropriation.

R. C. Schwenker of the State Federal Housing administration asked the council to provide an office and equipment for a WPA project in the city where persons could receive information concerning home loans for building and remodeling. Four interviewers and two typists, certified relief workers, would be employed, he explained. The matter was referred to the relief committee.

Approve Project

WPA approval of a project for installing storm sewers on a number of city streets was announced. Estimated cost of the project is $63,740. The city engineer was instructed to draw up a curb and gutter project for College avenue from Story to Drew street and Washington from Oneida to Superior street to be submitted to WPA. He also was requested to submit a list of street intersections without street signs to the street and bridge committee and to get an estimate of the cost of putting a guard rail on Memorial drive bridge.

The council allowed a claim of $2,083.90 made by the town of Grand Chute for part of income taxes, paid by three of the town's firms, which had been turned over to the city by the state tax commission.

Repair Bridge

Repair of the east side tail on the canal bridge near the Riverside mill was referred to the street and bridge committee. The street department was instructed to complete the outside railing on John street bridge.

The city was instructed by the state highway commission to extend maintenance of Memorial drive to the city limits as construction limits on Highway 41 were moved from W Seymour street south to the city limits. The matter was referred to the street and bridge committee.

Bishop Gallagher, Detroit Diocese Head, Succumbs

Known as Defender of Father Coughlin's Right To Free Speech

Detroit—(AP)—Lafayette and clergy—Father Charles E. Coughlin prominent among them—mourned today the death of the Most Rev. Michael J. Gallagher, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Detroit.

Lost to Father Coughlin, himself more familiar to the public than his church superior, was a counselor and outspoken defender of his right to free speech.

Bishop Gallagher, 70, diocesan head since 1918, died suddenly last night from complications following a streptococcus infection.

Father Coughlin, at his Royal Oak, Mich., home, said: "I have lost the best friend outside of my family."

To members of his diocese Bishop Gallagher, a native of Auburn, Mich., was known particularly as a builder within the church, but the nation knew him best for his defense of Father Coughlin during the heat of the recent political campaign while the priest berated the Roosevelt administration.

Mild Rebuke
The bishop, who announced his support of President Roosevelt for reelection, nonetheless upheld his subordinate's privilege of criticism on one occasion, however, mildly rebuking him.

This was at the time Father Coughlin called President Roosevelt "a liar." As advisor, more than censor, the bishop disclosed he had cautioned Father Coughlin. Then followed the priest's public apology to Mr. Roosevelt.

Bishop Gallagher repeatedly denied his visit to the Vatican last year had involved Father Coughlin's attacks on Mr. Roosevelt.

Forty years after his ordination, he chose Father Coughlin to deliver the sermon in 1933 in celebration of the anniversary. Years before he had placed Father Coughlin in charge of the Royal Oak parish, site of the now famous Shrine of the Little Flower.

Bishop Gallagher, son of Irish immigrants, was born Nov. 18, 1866. He obtained his advanced education for the priesthood at Munster college, near Dumeck, Ireland, and the Royal Imperial university of Innsbruck in the Tyrol.

Thumbing Rides Is Dangerous Practice, County Police Warn

A warning that attempts to thumb rides is not only contrary to law but dangerous to both hitch-hiker and motorist, particularly while highways are covered with ice and snow, was issued today by county motorcycle police.

A number of complaints about hitchhikers some of whom stand in the middle of the highway and for the motorist who refuses to stop for them either swerve to one side or risk hitting them, have been received by police. Another hazard arises when cars stop in the traffic lane to pick-up hitch-hikers and automobiles behind them are unable to stop on the slippery roads in time to avoid accidents.

Sport Cub Packs Plan 3-Scene Act In Annual Circus

Handicraft Work Will Feature Exhibits at Alexander Gymnasium

One hundred and fifty members of cub packs in Appleton and Menasha will take part in the cubbing act which will feature the valley council, Boy Scouts of America, circus at Alexander gymnasium Saturday night Feb. 13.

Cubs are youths between the ages of 9 and 12 years and are first organized in neighborhood dens. After sufficient members have joined the den, packs are formed. The groups discuss scouting activities as part of their cub work and are directed by leaders.

Handicraft activities will be exhibited by the cubs as the major part of their act with the work divided into three scenes. The first portion of the act will deal with the different crafts including knife, leather and paper work.

A humorous skit will form the second scene after which the cubs will demonstrate the practical side of cubbing. This will include illustrations of cub promise and laws after which they will give cheers while forming a "Living Circle."

The committee planning the act includes Halsey Hubbard, Robert Errington, Lyman Beeman, Ben Wadsworth and M. Gochneuer. Appleton: Ralph Suss, Louis Hafemeister, John Pinkerton and Oscar Peterson Menasha.

Receive Shipment of U. S. Savings Bonds

A new shipment of United States savings bonds was received by the Appleton post office yesterday. Stephen Balliet, postmaster, announced this morning.

Because of a new federal regulation effective Jan. 1 prohibiting the sale of more than $10,000 of bonds in the same series to one person, the post office has been unable to satisfy demands for the bonds for a week. Yesterday's shipment is a year's supply of the new series.

Treasury Funds Should be Used, Kiwanians Told

Special Projects Should Not be Done Through Levies, Speaker Says

Criticism of special assessments to members instead of the use of treasury funds for club projects and an appeal for the placing of young men in committee posts were voiced yesterday by William B. Faulkes, former district governor of Kiwanis, at a noon luncheon of the Appleton Kiwanis club in Conway hotel.

Speaking on "The Functions of a Kiwanis Club," Faulkes encouraged the use of the treasury rather than special levies on members in club undertakings and advised the club to give newer members "a better chance in committee work."

"Because clubs throughout the nation are observing Kiwanis week, the organizations should 'take inventories on their methods now,'" Faulkes said, and guard against becoming "luncheon groups rather than aggressive units."

Faulkes, formerly of Appleton and now a director in the state vocational program at Madison, was introduced by Carl Bertram of the Appleton Vocational school.

"Don't appoint committee heads or members unless you know they'll do some work," the speaker advised the Appleton club. "Get your various units together with the board of directors as often as you can."

Praising Kiwanis organizations for their activity in promoting beneficial causes, Faulkes pointed out that education in citizenship was a field in which clubs could perform lasting services. He advised the members to "get better acquainted" with the rural communities surrounding Appleton and to evince an interest in the state vocational program for young men and women.

In closing, he emphasized again the advantages in placing more responsibility in the hands of younger men of the club and suggested that the Appleton organization start a drive for new members.

The Appleton Kiwanis club was founded in 1924.

Mercury Sets New High of 107, Reaches Low of 26 Below Zero During 1936

When the mercury rose to 107 degrees above zero July 13, 1936, a new record for Appleton was set, the yearly report of A. C. Braun, observer at the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company for the weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture. Based on consecutive days below zero weather, the 1936 winter was the coldest on record while the summer was the hottest since records were kept. The coldest day of the year was Jan. 24 when the temperature dropped to 26 degrees below zero.

Hen and Pullet Flocks Increase In Local Area

Number of Laying Hens Still Low Compared to Pre-Depression Days

The number of hens and pullets reported in farm flocks Jan. 1 was about 4 per cent greater than 1935 and about 8 per cent greater than 1934, according to Fred Arnold, operator of an egg receiving station in Appleton. Number of laying hens are still low compared with the number in farm flocks in years preceding the depression, being almost 9 per cent lower than the high record of January, 1928.

According to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture Jan. 1, the increases over a year ago are most pronounced in the southern and north Atlantic areas. While present number of laying birds in the north central and far eastern states are slightly greater than a year ago, the number of late hatched pullets, remaining to be added to the laying flocks is smaller than a year ago and the total number of layers this season will probably be slightly less than last season in these two important egg producing areas.

More eggs were being laid per hundred birds Jan. 1 than in any previous year of the national records starting in 1825. This holds true for Appleton areas with hens averaging a 15 per cent increase over those of other years. The high rate of production was mainly due to the unusually mild weather of December and to the large proportion of pullets in laying flocks this year.

With a gain of about 4 per cent in layers and a high production of eggs per hen, the total production of eggs Jan. 1 was more than 20 per cent greater than in 1935.

Temperatures during January were well below normal and throughout the state it was the coldest January since 1930. Mild weather was the rule during the first part of the month with cold prevalent during the latter half.

It was the coldest February on record in the state and the second coldest month of all time. Drifting caused road blockades throughout the state.

Temperatures during March were above normal with precipitation below normal. However, the snow covering melted rapidly during the month.

April temperatures were much below normal and it was the coldest April since 1928. Pastures suffered when precipitation amounted to less than half of the normal amount.

Spring planting was completed in the middle of May although the precipitation was about 1 inch below normal with warm temperatures part of the rule. Meadows were in fair shape throughout the month.

June was below normal in temperature with rain at about half the normal amount. It was the driest June since 1912 but pastures remained in fair shape during the first half.

A heat wave kept people in misery during July especially from the sixth to the thirteenth. It was the warmest July since 1921. A state record for heat was set at Wisconsin Dells when the temperature rose to 114 degrees. It was the driest July since 1894, but a hail storm was reported at Oshkosh July 1.

With rain falling heavily during the latter part of the month, August of 1936 proved to be the wettest August since 1928. The July drought was broken Aug. 9. It was the warmest since 1909.

Temperatures were above normal in September with the precipitation below normal.

Frost Reported Cold breezes swept this territory the following month and it was the coldest October since 1925. Precipitation was below normal, and a killing frost ruined some crops the first part of the month.

November temperatures were above normal although precipitation was below the average. Pastures were green and furnished feed during the first part of the month.

Frost harmed many potato crops, however. Spasmodic temperatures ruled during December with the warmest Christmas in years recorded. There were four sub-zero days before the holidays, but thaws and warm weather made vacation periods enjoyable. Precipitation was above normal.

Defense Wins in $28,000 Action Over Auto Crash

Verdict Holds Appleton Man Blameless in Death of Chicago Youth

A verdict for the defendant, F. Trezie, Appleton, in the $28,000 automobile accident suit brought by Mrs. Catherine Borelli, ss Marguerite Borelli and Judge Francis Borelli, Chicago, was returned by a jury in the municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan last night.

The action was based on an automobile accident on a detour for a Antigo two years ago in which Mrs. Borelli's son, Francis Borelli, Jr., was fatally injured in the crash, and his sister, Marguerite, is hurt.

Mrs. Borelli sued as administratrix of her son's estate, seeking $28,000 for pain and suffering, $24,750 funeral and other costs, and $3,250 for automobile damage.

The and her husband also sought $20,000 for monetary loss resulting from the death of their son and $500 for loss of his society. Marguerite asked $10,000 for personal injuries.

Trezie, charging that Borelli, Jr., was at fault in the accident, filed a counter claim for $170.84.

In a special verdict, the jury decided that Trezie was in no way at fault in the accident and that 100 per cent of the negligence involved is that of Borelli, Jr. It also held that Marguerite Borelli was not at fault.

Kaukauna Man Gets Promotion In Reserve Army

Olin G. Dryer Honored in Ceremony at R. O. A. Meeting Here

A ceremony in which Olin Dryer, principal of Kaukauna High school, was shown of his major's gold oak leaves and presented with the silver oak leaves of a lieutenant colonel, featured a meeting of Appleton chapter of the Reserve Officers' association of the United States at the Conway hotel last night. Mrs. Dryer had the honor of removing the major's insignias and affixing the lieutenant colonel's insignias to her husband's shoulder straps.

Last night's meeting was for the officers and their ladies and was preceded by a dinner. The principal speaker of the evening was Colonel Frank J. Schneller, Neenah. He recounted his trip through Europe last summer and showed motion pictures of the Olympic games.

Colonel Schneller told the officers he felt that so long as Germany was fairly strong, a military sense there was no fear of communism over-running Europe. He also said that much of the war talk was just talk and that in his visits throughout Germany he had seen no evidences of persecution of other people or religious persecution.

The Appleton chapter announced that observation of national defense week next month will feature a talk by Captain Walter Brummond, Infantry Reserve, before John Johnston post of the American Legion at Appleton, a radio talk by Major A. O. Kuehnstedt, Artillery Reserve, and a talk before several service clubs in this vicinity by Major Archibald Mixon, of the regular army.

The February meeting of the reservists will feature a talk by Major R. V. K. Harris, Wausau, on modernization of the field artillery and field artillery tactics. An invitation will be extended to all field artillery reserve officers in the sixth and seventh training sectors to hear Major Harris. The major is an instructor on duty with the organized reserve at Wausau.

Tonight Appleton reservists will meet at Armory G for pistol instruction and will fire on the indoor range.

General slippery conditions resulted on highways and streets as the temperature dropped below the freezing mark last night. Street department crews were busy with snow removal work today.

Highest and lowest temperatures yesterday were: Jacksonville 54, Montgomery 50, Winnebago 34, below zero and Miles City 26 below zero.

Congress Wonders About Social Legislation and Position of High Court

Washington—President Roosevelt's inaugural address left congress wondering today how much social legislation will be attempted this season and where it will lead in the differences between the administration and the supreme court.

Leaders of both major parties hailed his speech as a noteworthy statement of ideals. All sides construed his stand as a notice of "no compromise" and aggressive action.

Key Democrats expected to be called to the White House soon for conferences on such specific problems as wage and hour standards, crop control, slum clearance, farm tenancy and possibly a broad program for other economic readjustments.

Intentions were to go ahead as in the first administration, in the face of supreme court rulings to the contrary. The justice department and several non-governmental sources in touch with the White House were rushing studies of business regulation.

"Little Congress"
Concrete suggestions on social security and other national problems may develop in a "little congress" of governors and other officials from all states which opened today.

Fighting in federal legislation on social security and wages and hours with state programs is one of the aims of the administration.

Whether an issue over interpretation of the constitution would reach a head before new business and farm legislation is enacted was among the many questions discussed in Capitol offices.

Decisions on the Wagner labor act and the social security act appear likely before tests of the prospective successors of NRA and AAA can reach the supreme court.

Although the president did not mention that tribunal yesterday, his remarks about the democratic process occasioned speculation in the light of his previous call for a "liberal" construction of the constitution.

Depends on People
The essential democracy of our nation and the safety of our people, he said, "depend not upon the absence of power but upon lodging it with those whom the people can change or continue at stated intervals through an honest and free system of elections."

Speaking deliberately as rain spattered his face, he said the people "will insist that every agency of popular government use effective instruments to carry out their will."

Mr. Roosevelt repeated yesterday the contention made in his opening message to congress that the constitution contains authority for his program. Should the supreme court hold otherwise, he has given only one broad intimation of his course, in the words:

"Means must be found to adopt our legal forms and our judicial interpretation to the actual present national needs."

Some advisors believe he intends to let the matter rest there, pending exploration of the alternatives on wage and hour, crop control, power policy and related questions—and on developments in the courts.

Consider Conference
Some of the more outspoken Roosevelt supporters, however, proceeded with plans for a conference in March on a constitutional amendment to restrict the courts or enlarge federal powers. Senator Norris (Neb.), heading the group, has proposed repeal of the laws giving supreme court justices and district justices life tenure.

"They get out of touch with the people," he said.

The situation aroused much interest at the capital because of Mr. Roosevelt's repeated declarations that legislation of the last four years was only a start. He said:

"We have begun to bring private autocratic powers into their proper subordination to the public government."

THE PRESIDENT'S INAUGURAL

The bold and discerning Voltaire once declared that public men had two spirits, one that of the preacher and the other that of the doer.

When President Roosevelt speaks in generalities most people find themselves rushing to his support nearly 100 per cent. But when he attempts to put those spoken generalities into action—ah, there is the rub.

And yet is that not true with nearly all human endeavor?

We create courts and say they must do justice. But we often differ widely when we come to apply justice to a given state of facts.

We create a constitution and in it we define the powers and privileges of certain of our agencies. But quite often we find ourselves at daggers' points when we fit our language into action.

The tone of the President's inaugural address was on the same level with his speech at Philadelphia when he accepted the nomination last June. It had a touch of high fever, something of the spirit of the crusader. We liked particularly his constant reference to "We of the Republic." Solemn words, those. Splendid, exalted language.

And never did any president speak more accurately than Mr. Roosevelt when he said:

"Overwhelmingly we of the republic are men and women of good will—men and women who have more than warm hearts of dedication—men and women who have cool heads and willing hands of practical purpose as well."

America has shown all through its history a most remarkable fusing of good will, warm hearts, cool heads—but always, yes, ever and always, practical purposes.

And if things won't work, if ideas cannot be put into action, if plans mean more misery eventually than happiness, then all the good will, and the warm hearts and the cool heads have been frustrated for lack of a "practical purpose." Indeed, the greatest opposition that Mr. Roosevelt has found in the country, and will continue to find, comes from the conviction that many of the things he has tried to do were lacking in sufficient of a practical purpose to bring to the people more of good than of harm.

Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that there must be no resting upon the oars, none of those periods of relief from change and alteration, and threat of more change and more alteration, will be very reassuring to his political soldiers who would die of ennui if ordered into camp but sing and cheer and sing again when on the road to the field of contest.

Of course there are a great many things for the nation to do, not the least of which is to amend some of the things that have already been done.

FINGERPRINTS AND SOCIAL SECURITY

"When your hair has turned to silver
 Fingerprints will protect your gold."

An article in the Fingerprint Magazine shows how indispensable this means of identification will now become to the American people under the Social Security Act.

The magazine argues that "young John Smith, aged 18, beginning in the year 1937 to pay a part of his wages to his old age income" must depend upon something certain by way of identification because he will not begin to "draw his pension for 47 years."

The amount of confusion that will develop without a positive means of identification will be manifest to us all when we read that out of our army of less than 5 million men in 1918 we had nearly 1000 men by the name of John Smith, just plain and simple John Smith.

During the 40 to 47 years that men will be contributing to their old age income they will be moving hither, thither and yon. Their features will be changing, their shoulders will stoop, their legs go lame, new seams and wrinkles will appear in their faces, but their fingerprints will stay the same.

Of course we will come to taking our fingerprints, all of us, because we will not consent to put aside earnings over a long period of time without making as sure as human endeavor can guarantee anything that the right money will go to the right person.

GORILLA AND GUERRILLA

It is sad to gaze upon the wreck of a friendship. It is melancholy to note evidence of the hatred that follows a break between two old and boisterous cronies who started out together as did Stalin and Trotsky and bathed for so long in the same blood.

They might still be fellow prowlers had Lenin, whose leadership they conceded, lived on instead of passing into the shadows he cursed and tossing his stained sceptre between them for man's oldest and reddest conflict, the clutch for power, the eternal striving for mastery.

This is no particular criticism of the men involved. The same sort of conflict persists through the most highly civilized masses of mankind. Trotsky and Stalin show the coarser elements evidenced by the snarling and growling and slashing of a first-class dog fight. Trotsky is an example of the curse of education. He is a man as prolific with words as a police court lawyer. He may not know their precise meaning and certainly little of their application but he flings them around like a cyclone scatters the dust. His latest publication is called the Bulletin of the Opposition. It is freighted heavily with an answer and explanation of what has been happening in that peaceful land of the proletariat east of the Polish Corridor.

By and large Mr. Trotsky charges and attempts to sustain by detailed evidence that all Moscow trials and accusations are evidences "of the Bonapartist degeneration of the Stalin regime" and that the Russian dictator is now "deliberately engaged in liquidating the Communist revolution by killing off its old leaders."

As a witness Mr. Trotsky is not so much. As an expert upon slaughter, however, discoursing glibly upon the tactics of Bolshevism we must give attention to his every word. Certainly he should know whereof he speaks.

Trotsky says that Stalin is concerned only with a continual succession of the "frameup," that "confessions" upon which verdicts are rendered are forced from men "morally and physically broken by imprisonment and persecution" and that all these "offenses" are not crimes at all but rather under the one term "counter-revolutionary" to delude a people whose minds are already very much confused.

It is true that Trotsky can point to former editions of his Bulletin in which he prophesied the very bloody purge that took place during the last year. This may be because he is a seer, and yet it may be because he was about to embark on some ruthless acts that he knew might attract retaliation. Trotsky perhaps exemplifies the old adage that a good criminal always starts out a long time ahead of his crime by building an alibi.

So in the recent issue of the Bulletin he explains:

"We have not only foreseen but we have repeatedly warned a proletarian public opinion in the West that Stalin would take the road of bloody liquidation of Bolshevism, the road of bloody frameup—he has no other road. Upon this road Stalin entered without hesitation long ago, in 1924, if not before. The recent Moscow trial was merely the most grandiose, but by no means the first nor the last, frame-up cooked up by Stalin."

Continuing in great detail concerning the Moscow trials Trotsky concludes:

"The first 19 old Bolsheviks are sentenced to long terms of imprisonment for complicity in the Kiroff assassination although the complicity as the court admitted was 'not proven' and then four of them—picked by Stalin—are included in the new case and shot. The fate of the rest remains unknown. The four were included not for reasons of justice, but for political reasons. Stalin needed them to give the trial its political character."

Not a single outside witness was called. The trial was founded exclusively on the testimony of the defendants, who were at the same time the witnesses for the prosecution. Their lives had been promised to them if they gave the desired testimony. They submitted to this agreement, but Stalin betrayed his promise, realizing that only by executing the defendants was it possible to lend the appearance of reality to the accusations and the trial proceedings."

Mr. Trotsky's Bulletin may be safely used to start a fire in the grate some morning. Possibly it speaks the truth. But there is one certainty to all this sort of "literature" and that is that neither side can be depended upon for one full minute at a time.

Theirs is the history of words, broken words, words of confession, words of accusation, words, words, words. And these words are used that they may elbow their fellows back so that the spotlight plays upon their sinister countenances while the goosesteppers march in review.

Their present controversy is the usual performance when assassins cease to be friends.

The total value of the principal farm crops in Virginia harvested during 1936 is estimated at $107,075,000, or 33 per cent more than the 1935 valuation.

IT SEEMS THAT MIMI SAW THE WRONG GUY

Open Letter To Mimi:

Hey! Hey!! Hey!!! What yah trying to do???? Break up a happy home???? It's a retraction I am demanding about that "recent adventure with that certain blond."

Now, Mimi, your misstatement could cause not a little trouble and the vagueness of it leaves not a few implications. Stirring up the embers of my memory I find a limited number of experiences with blondes and certainly no adventures.

Unless I am hexed, what dealings I have had with blondes, goes into slightly antiquated history. I suggest you write Jonah and tell him who you think I really am, and he, serving as a mediator, will set you right (or wrong).

If wrong, a public apology is in order.

If right, I'm nuts.

Love and kisses,

No matter how you look at it, it isn't very sensible.

Now we can settle down to worrying about congress again.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE NEW ROAD

When first we found the new road,
 There were no homes beside
 Its smooth and curving splendor
 To match the road in pride.

But now upon the new road
 The homes are painted white.
 Their lamps provide a beacon
 Along the way at night.

The homes upon the new road
 Are very plain and small.
 At night a lamp suffices
 To light one room and hall.

And when you ride the new road
 In winter of the year,
 The windows of each little house
 Send out a word of cheer;

Which makes the striving new road
 Much finer than the old,
 For mansions on the old road
 Have too much gloom to hold.

But here upon the new road
 Where houses have one room,
 They are so small and cozy
 There is no place for gloom!

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
 Thursday, Jan. 20, 1927

An application for a marriage license was granted Wednesday to Leonard Rusch of Appleton and Dora Wetzel of Cecil, by John E. Hantschel, county clerk. This was only the seventh license issued this year, the clerk's records show.

Two titles chosen as "The Book of the Month" by the committee appointed for that purpose have appeared in the list of new books recently added to the Appleton Public Library. They are Roberts' "The Time of Man" and Wyllie's "The Orphan Angel."

"The Unseen," a one-act play, was presented by Geneva Jensen, Joergene Eyster, Douglas Barnett, Harvey Jorgenson and Kenneth Kitchon of the expression class of Neenah high school Thursday noon at the weekly meeting of the Neenah Rotary club at the Valley Inn.

Girls of the Appleton Woman's basketball team will entertain at an open dice party at the clubhouse Thursday evening. Miss Lorraine Green, Miss Bertha Steiner and Miss Agnes Vanneman will have charge of the party.

25 YEARS AGO
 Thursday, Jan. 25, 1912

Thomas Murphy, 35, suffered compound fractures of both legs the previous afternoon when he fell from a flat car in the yards of the Inland Lake Pulp and Paper company.

If the Wisconsin and Northern railroad extends its line through Appleton next year then the city will be the site of a $150,000 packing plant it was announced that day by officers of the Commercial club. The officers said a corporation would be formed to build a plant if the railroad puts its line through the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Burley Sinnen entertained at a party the previous evening and prizes at card were won by John Hurley and Mrs. Robert Hauert.

Charles Maitland and Walter Bleick will operate a sawmill at Twelve Corners in the near future. Machinery for the plant is now on its way there and is to be installed soon.

More than 100 couples attended the dancing party given the previous evening at Columbia hall by St. Thomas Young Men's society.

Indiana University officials reported the institution gave service to 816,690 persons in 1936, a gain of seven per cent over the preceding year.

THE SIT-DOWN STRIKER COMES HOME.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
 Noted Physician and Author

EVERY TOOTH IS WORTH A THOUSAND DOLLARS

Pyorrhea means a purulent discharge but the term has been applied most commonly to chronic inflammation of the gums, especially the periosteum or bone-covering membrane lining the tooth sockets. This chronic inflammation is accompanied with more or less supuration or pus formation and shrinkage of the gums and consequent loosening of the teeth. Not all gum inflammation (ulitis, gingivitis) is pyorrhea, though dentists often refer to the earlier stages of pyorrhea, (Rigg's disease) as interstitial gingivitis when they find the gums around the necks of the teeth involved.

In the light of present knowledge the view acceptable to most doctors and dentists who have studied the question is that pyorrhea is fundamentally a nutritional condition, that is to say it is a manifestation of faulty nutrition. Nutrition, as we do use the term, means much more than proper food. It means the assimilation (metabolism) of material whereby body tissue is built up or repaired and energy liberated. So you see it includes digestion, absorption, utilization or assimilation, excretion, in fact the works. After all, when a physician finds that a child or adult is "poorly nourished" he doesn't mean the patient doesn't get enough to eat. Most victims of malnutrition get enough to eat, many eat too much.

If it is true that pyorrhea is a nutritional disorder it does not follow that correction of the nutritional fault will cure pyorrhea. After the condition has progressed for any length of time there is inevitably more or less atrophy, wasting, shrinkage, degeneration or shrivelling of tissues, of course, with impairment or loss of function. Degeneration may be stopped, but regeneration is another matter. One can as reasonably expect to restore the characteristics of youth to an individual whose hair has grown gray and whose skin has become wrinkled as to restore normal teeth and gums after pyorrhea has been allowed to exist for months or years.

It requires the full cooperation of doctor and dentist to insure the best possible results from treatment of pyorrhea in any case. Neither should take any significant step in treatment without the sanction of his colleague. Only in this way can the progress of pyorrhea be checked.

The general health invariably suffers when pyorrhea exists. The principal reason for the undermining of health is the nutritional deficiency that causes the trouble. Another reason is the constant irritation or poisoning of the body by absorption of septic products from pus-pockets about the teeth and gums, absorption through the lymphatic and blood stream. Swallowing of pus or other poisonous exudation from the gums is comparatively harmless.

The coarseness, tenderness, sponiness of the gums as well as looseness or perhaps loss of teeth tends to prevent proper mastication of natural foods or to make the patient avoid healthful foods, which require much chewing in favor of less healthful ones which require little or no mastication, and this leads to digestive difficulties of various kinds and often to further nutritional deficiencies, as will be explained in another article.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Roy Dislikes Meat

My son, aged 6, does not like meat. I force him to eat a small portion every day. Am I right in this, or should I serve instead the dairy food he loves?—(Mrs. H. R. L.)

Answer—If he has plenty of milk, eggs, cheese, it doesn't matter if he eats no meat. Give him vegetable soups made with meat stock. He will acquire a taste for meat in due course.

Child and Dog

It is all right for a child of four to have a dog? She had worms a week ago and the doctor said she probably gets them from the dog?—(Mrs. H. McCa.)

Answer—Yes. Children commonly get worms from dogs or cats—the eggs of the worms are in the animal's saliva. Teach the child to wash the hands carefully after touching the dog or cat. Even at that slight risk I think every child should have a dog or cat as pet.

Weak Feet

Do you say that a tendency to flatfoot in a growing child means the child doesn't get any vitamins?

—(Mrs. R. M.)

Answer—I believe insufficient vitamin D often accounts for weak, pronated or potential flatfeet in children in their early teens. Send ten cent coin and stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet "Care of the Feet"

Seen and Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Here is a sad note that provides ample argument against being too impulsively generous.

During the holidays so many gifts of a liquescent nature were delivered to the desk of a New York columnist that he finally was compelled to hire a cab and transport them to his hotel.

Next day there arrived belatedly a package of three bottles. Thinking some of the boys in the office might like a little scotch or rye, he doled out two quarts and carried the remaining one home. However, his sense of piety generously turned to chagrin when he discovered he had given away two quarts of rare old imported champagne. He means now he will never again give away packages that haven't been opened. Such an unchristian-like attitude!

That golden cloud you noticed on the horizon was just the French Casino sending out canary birds for Christmas. . . . I have named mine "La Belle Moulin Rouge," although I'll admit I don't know whether it is a belle or a beau. . . . Then there was Rudy Vallee's card, showing a photograph of himself roaring down a snow-covered mountain on skis. . . . So that's how he keeps in fighting trim!

Several weeks before the Yule, Jane Froman received a letter that had been carried on the first flight of the China Clipper. . . . Being an ardent collector of stamps, she was fascinated by the varied cancellations on the envelope. "Ruefully, however, she noted a 'Don't Open Till Xmas" admonition on the letter. . . . This called for a double order of Spartan fortitude, but Jane stuck it out and refrained from opening the letter until Dec. 25th. . . . Then she found this note from a friend:

"Dear Jane, your Christmas present may be found on the outside of this envelope."

Paul Whiteman gave Billy Rose a marvelous cigarette case of solid gold and priceless jewels, and there was this inscription inside: "To Billy Rose, with deep affection, from Paul Whiteman." . . . "I almost fainted when they brought that in," reminisced Billy. "All we used to remind here are summaries and subpoenas."

Which reminds me that the Bergen County, N. J., operative of this bureau forwards the tale of the lady whose dog has the most vociferous appetite in the world. . . . This hound will eat anything, and as evidence she offers a recent incident where he ate up a Christmas present, paper, string card and all. Now she is worried because, not knowing whom the present was from, she doesn't know whom to address a thank you note.

Your Birthday

"AQUARIUS"

If January 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. until 12 noon, from 3 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m., from 5 to 7 p. m. and from 9 to 11 p. m.

Insistence will be the principal cause of embarrassment this day. You will be wise not to try to force people to do what they do not want to. Any form of ridicule is apt to be not only very bad taste, but dangerous, for it may make enemies, who will neither forget nor forgive what they consider an insult. Circumstances are such that care must be used this day in accepting or giving advice. Be observant, or you may overlook someone or something of importance.

Rumors may work much harm this day, so verify whatever you hear before repeating what is liable to turn out to be idle gossip. This should be an exceptionally good day for trading, negotiating and promoting. Be careful in handling money this day, for some condition is liable to exist conducive to carelessness, that might prove expensive. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who will shortly announce their engagement, had better remember very few people can be dictatorial without meeting with strenuous opposition.

If a woman and January 22 is your birthday, you are probably a very sentimental person, sociable and endowed with a keen sense of humor. If you allow your impulses to rule you the chances are they will keep you in hot water. Your personality will make you many friends, whose loyalty ought to be highly gratifying. You, in all likelihood, are a lover of animals, having the gift of being able to win their confidence. Children ought to be drawn to you, for the chances are you are very fond of them. As a lawyer, doctor, musician, writer, sales lady or dietician you may make an enviable record. It seems logical you should marry, for everything indicates happiness, as well as prosperity, in so far as your matrimonial outlook is concerned.

The child born on January 22 usually is a very healthy, active youngster. In its late teens it may decide on the career it wishes to follow, and everything ought to be done to enable it to do so.

If a man and January 22 is your natal day, if you will get into the habit of being optimistic regarding the future and enthusiastic over your work, your advancement towards success most likely will be rapid. As a journalist, naturalist, artist, advertising man or salesman

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—So outstanding in importance is the neutrality problem now confronting congress that it may justify turning a spotlight here and there on the field.

The intent of neutrality legislation appears to be two-fold.

First: To keep America out of war.

Second: To help keep war out of the world.

The classification isn't exact, but the neutrality advocates divide roughly into two such groups. One stresses the importance of isolating America from war. The other stresses the importance of employing America's position as a neutral to preserve peace in the world.

Disputes may arise as to just how much risk this government wants to take to keep the world at peace, but every advocate of neutrality expresses hope that neutrality, either through direct effect or by example, will assist toward that end.

Strong Nation Gave Break

Consider what has been the effect of neutrality so far: Italy-Ethiopia: Strict neutrality in the Ethiopian affair helped Italy, in the sense that a hands-off policy usually helps the strong man in any fight. There have been indications of Italian good-will toward the United States because of that neutrality attitude.

Japan-China: After sharing in administration of the official scolding to Japan because of the invasion of Shanghai the United States has remained neutral in the Chinese field recently as far as an intervention is concerned. The president has not shut off arms shipments by recognizing a state of war between the two nations. Japan had tapered off its activities in Manchoukuo before the neutrality act was passed.

This hands-off treatment perhaps is another instance of comforting the strong man, although some students of Oriental affairs surmise Japan is riding toward a crash.

Now comes the Spanish affair. Of the two factions, the government or loyalist side has been harder pressed for war equipment. News dispatches indicate that aid from outside, until recently at any rate, has been given most liberally to the insurgents. Yet when an effort is made to ship planes and other equipment from the United States to the loyalists, congress and the administration hasten legislation to stop it.

Control Is Big Issue

Who is best situated to determine what the United States attitude should be when neutrality is put to the test? Many members of congress, especially those insistent on American isolation from war regardless of its effect elsewhere, want to outline in advance just what steps the president may take.

Others, and this includes the president and the supreme court (remember the recent decision in the Chicago arms case?) believe the president should have wide leeway. Thus we could act quickly and, as the supreme court indicated, could act on the basis of secret information he could not impart publicly to congress.

But the isolationists fear the president (be Roosevelt or a later one) might be tempted to place too much stress on keeping world peace, and thus entangle the country in foreign muddles.

Now, if you were a congressman, just how would you vote?

Evidence of Jamestown

Drinking Habits Found

Jamestown, Island, Va.—(R)—From the rubbish heaps of the past, federal technicians are excavating objects which they say vividly demonstrate the emphasis placed upon the drinking tradition by the doughty Jamestown settlers in their more care-free moments when they sought relief from the dangers lurking in the wilderness.

"The most delicate goblets of the Venetian type demonstrate the fact that much of the elegance and refinement known at home were transplanted to the forest primeval," says Worth Bailey, museum technician of the Colonial National Historical Park, in a study of 17th century potables, based on archeological discoveries at Jamestown.

Thousands of fragments which shed light on the drinking habits and appeturances of early colonial days have been found in the old settlement in the new world and are stored in a "temporary" building here.

Lady Lions Hear Talk on Trip to Texas and Mexico

THE Texas Centennial, the interesting grounds and buildings of the flying fields in Texas, the historic Alamo, the acres of parks in San Antonio, a visit to a "duke" ranch, and a trip to Monterey and Saltillo, Mexico were described by Mrs. E. A. Dettman, Appleton, in a talk before Lady Lions Wednesday afternoon at Conway hotel following a luncheon and business meeting.

Mrs. Dettman told of the five flying fields in San Antonio, preparatory, intermediate and finishing schools. She described Randolph field which was built in 1931 at a cost of $20,000,000 and which covers 23,000 acres of ground. There are 3,000 people living at the field, said the speaker, all of them connected in some way with the field. They have their own school, church and theater, she said.

The parks of San Antonio cover 19,000 acres, said Mrs. Dettman, the largest of them being Breckinridge park. She then told of her visit to Gallagher ranch, a "duke" ranch about 25 miles from San Antonio, after which she went on to Mexico.

Courtsip Ceremony
The promenade which is a courtesip custom in Monterey was described by Mrs. Dettman, who said that every Sunday and Wednesday night the young people of the city walk around the square, the girls going one way and the boys the other, thus giving them an opportunity for meeting and mingling with members of the opposite sex.

A visit to the bishop's palace in Monterey, a day in Saltillo where many of the lovely linens and hand made articles are made, and a stay in Galveston, Texas, were other highlights of the trip. Mrs. Dettman showed some snapshots taken on the trip which she said were difficult to take because the people in Mexico resent having their pictures taken. She also showed some serapes or shawls, and linens which she brought back from Mexico.

Eighteen women attended the luncheon yesterday and heard the talk by Mrs. Dettman. During the business meeting, the members voted to buy a ton of coal for the clubhouse for the blind.

Lawrence College Dean of Women Gives Club Account Of 6 Current Stage Plays

EYE-WITNESS reports of six plays of the current season were given by Miss Marguerite Woodworth, dean of women at Lawrence college, at the annual guest-day meeting of the Fortnightly club Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank G. Wheeler, 810 E. College avenue. Miss Woodworth spent part of the holiday season in New York, seeing several of the current theatrical offerings.

In the first scene of the first act she saw, she heard Appleton, Wis., mentioned. The play was "Stage Door," written by Edna Ferber, the former Appletonian, in collaboration with George Kaufman. It is light and frothy, but charming and beautifully acted, Miss Woodworth said, and typically twentieth-century. The actors talk crisply and dress simply, the pace is fast. Its moral is that Hollywood is cheap and shoddy, while the legitimate theater is fine and intelligent. Margaret Sullivan is the star.

Sharp Contrast
In sharp contrast to the modernity of "Stage Door" is the seventeenth century Restoration comedy, "The Country Wife," by Wycherley, of which Miss Woodworth also told. It is now revived in the reign of Roosevelt II, she remarked smilingly.

"The Country Wife" is a bawdy story, Miss Woodworth said, depicting the dissolute manners of the Restoration period. Although the play is shocking in idea, it is much less so in performance, partly because its seventeenth century vocabulary is not fully understood by the audience, she explained, and partly because it is elaborately and beautifully staged. To see Ruth Gordon's interpretation of the star role, especially in the letter-writing scene, is worth the price of an orchestra seat, Miss Woodworth declared. She called it one of the best pieces of comedy acting she had ever seen.

"Winless Victory"
A play that stands apart from the others is Maxwell Anderson's "Winless Victory," she continued. The story of a new England sea captain who married a Malay princess and then found himself ostracized by the racial intolerance of Salem, the play is written in verse and presents Katharine Cornell in the leading role. It is a moving thing to see, Miss Woodworth said, and a mere description cannot at all convey its dramatic quality.

"Tovarich," written in French by Jacques Deval and translated into English by Robert Sherwood, is a commonplace comedy of manners, but it is distinguished by excellent acting on the part of Marta Abba, the Italian, and John Halliday, Miss Woodworth said. It is the story of two royal Russian exiles in Paris forced by their lack of financial means to become servants in the home of a wealthy family.

Praises Gielgud
Miss Woodworth went on to acclaim the acting of John Gielgud in the title part of Shakespeare's "Hamlet." "He speaks the line with such spontaneity that you feel as if he were making them up as he goes along," she said.

By far the most irresistible play of the year, she thinks, is "You Can't Take It With You," by George Kaufman and Moss Hart. "No one can spend an evening with the madcap Screamore family," she said, "without being absolutely tipsy with mirth."

In the absence of Mrs. Joseph Beaton, president of the club, Mrs. George Nixon greeted the guests and introduced the speaker. Tea was served.

Best Cough Remedy You Ever Used Is Home-made

Double-quick Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

No matter what you might spend for medicine, you couldn't get quicker, better relief from coughs that start from colds than this simple home mixture gives. It takes but a moment to prepare—its so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of the best cough remedy that you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it beats anything you ever tried. It has a remarkable three-fold action: it loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Expert Asked to Settle Argument for Players

BY ELY CULBERTSON
(Copyright, 1937, By Ely Culbertson.)
"Dear Mr. Culbertson:
The hand inclosed was the source of a slight difference of opinion last night in the duplicate game at our local club. I am giving the bidding as it occurred and would like specifically to know whether North's redouble of the final contract was justified or not. North, not unnaturally, contends that it was, considering South's strong bidding. South maintains that North's double raise was ample, that the redouble was much too aggressive, and that consequently the 400 point penalty (down one trick, vulnerable) was entirely North's fault. Who was right, if either? Very truly yours, M. N."
South, dealer.

SOUTH

The bidding:
South West North East
1 club 1 spade Pass Pass
Double 2 diamonds 4 clubs Pass
5 clubs Pass Pass Double
Pass Pass Redouble Pass

I must say that the bidding was nothing to elicit admiration. The fact that it occurred in a duplicate game makes the North-South bidding particularly bad. At no time did either partner mention no trump, which, on their combined holdings, would have been the logical contract. West's two diamond bid also was rather strange. There was no reason to anticipate that the takeout double of one spade would be left in and, therefore, no reason to mention the lower ranking suit. As to the redouble, the actual subject of the controversy, outside of the fact that it came from three wrong hands I see little reason to cavil at it. South should have redoubled. When he did not do so he should have considered himself fortunate that North acted on his behalf.

This, I imagine, is just one more hand in which issues have become confused by partners squabbling over the wrong point. They should not have tried to fix blame for a redouble that should have been fulfilled with ease.

According to my correspondent the opening lead was the king of spades. Dummy should win and lead a low club. The bidding clearly marks West with a spade and diamond two-suiter. The penalty double marks East with no less than four clubs, and the probability is overwhelming that among these four are the queen and ten. The only way, therefore, to prepare for a double finesse is to lead a low club rather than the ace. On this lead South wins with the nine, then returns to the ace, and subsequently finesses to his king-jack. After picking up the trumps he need concede only a spade and a diamond.

The crux in this hand is entry handling. After dummy's spade ace goes on the first lead its only other reentry, the club ace, must be preserved. To lay down the ace and then take a finesse, however deep, against East is futile and must result in the loss of a trump trick.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

Today's Menu

Refrigerator Rolls
Refrigerator rolls are very convenient, since the dough may be made and stored in the refrigerator and rolls may be pinched off at any time. Approximately 2 hours are required for making each batch.

Dinner Menu
Baked Fish Tartar Sauce
Escalloped Beans
Beet And Cabbage Salad
Refrigerator Rolls
Raisin Pie Coffee

Beet And Cabbage Salad (Serves Four)
2 cups chopped cabbage
2-3 cup diced cooked beets
1 cup chopped sweet pickles
1-3 cup salad dressing
Chill ingredients. Combine and serve in a bowl.

Refrigerator Rolls
2 cups boiling water
5 tablespoons 2 eggs
lard 2 cakes com-lard
2 teaspoons salt 3 cups flour
Add lard and salt to water. Cool until lukewarm. Add to yeast which has been broken into small pieces. Add 2 tablespoons sugar. Beat well. Add remaining ingredients. Sprinkle top with cold water. Cover rolls are to be made, break off bits of dough, shape and place on greased shallow pan. Let rise until doubled in size. (About 3 hours is required.) Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven. This dough will keep one week if stored in a very cold place.

A clear blue gas flame with a green cone is the cleanest fuel you can use; a yellowish flame means you have clogged the burners which need cleaning and possible adjustment.

Steam from excess water when boiling on top of the range escapes to walls and ceiling. For a clean kitchen, cook by the new low-water method.

Maharajah Turban

The Indian maharajah's towering turban gave Louise Sanders the inspiration for this midseason hat. It is made of dull black taffeta worked with glistening dots of slit cellulose film and is draped to leave a slash revealing the coiffure. A shiny plastic wing ornament adds the finishing touch. The hat, designed for afternoon wear, makes a smart new accent in a winter wardrobe.

Lumberjacks and Their Work

IV—RIVER LOGGING
Motor trucks and railway freight cars haul logs in vast number from forests to lumber mills, but an old method still used in some places is to make river currents do most of the work of transport.

During cold winter months, logs are moved to the banks of streams, and are left there until the spring thaw. Then they are rolled into the water, and start on their way downstream.

Log jam in an Ontario river.

Lumberjacks in charge of the floating logs have the special name of "river drivers." Their work is to keep the logs moving, to halt any "jam" which may start to take place.

Each one holding a long pole, the river drivers leap from log to log. Their heavy boots have soles and heels studded with sharp nails, and this helps to keep them from slipping. It is dangerous work. A slip might mean, drowning or being crushed between logs. The men are experts, however, and while they may slip once in a great while, they almost always finish the journey "alive and whole."

The long poles have hooks and spikes at the ends, for use in pushing or pulling the logs. There are times when the men must work at high speed, but much of the journey may pass quietly enough.

All the care of the river-drivers may fall to prevent a log jam, and sometimes a river is choked by thousands upon thousands of logs. A famous log jam took place in the Chippewa river of Wisconsin more than half a century ago. The jam was so great, with more and more logs coming down and stopping, that the river was filled with timber for a distance of 10 miles. This jam was not broken up until dynamite was used at the point where the trouble started.

Enough logs to supply a million board feet of lumber in a season may be taken as a fairly good average for the production of a lumber camp. The entire output of logs will keep a large lumber mill going only a few days. This means that many lumber camps must work to supply the needs of a single lumber mill.

An interesting fact about lumber is the great amount of moisture it contains. About half the weight is water. After being sawed into shape at the mill, the lumber is "green" and must be seasoned before it is fit for the market. Sometimes it is left to stand from four to 10 months, so moisture will evaporate. Some mills use "dry kilns" to speed the seasoning of the wood, so it can be sent to market much more quickly.

Tell Older Children of Family's Difficulties

BY ANGELO PATRI
They seem to understand that I am worried to death, poor things, but I can't bear to have them know how things are. If business picks up we'll get through, but if it doesn't, well—
The children this mother talked of were both in college. They were living as usual on their allowance, never dreaming that only heroic sacrifice made it possible. They were intelligent, able young people who would gladly have helped in any way possible had they known. Not knowing, they wondered at the thought of the troubled face of their mother, the preoccupied air of their father. To their questions, "Anything wrong, mother? Is there anything we can do?" the reply was an artificial smile and a brisk, "No, no. What makes you ask such a question? Run along and enjoy yourselves."

Young people of sense do not like to be treated that way. In the first place they feel that things are going badly without being able to put a finger on the sore place. They watch and listen in the hope of finding something they can understand and clear up. Being silenced and pushed aside as helpless children, too young to talk sensibly to grown-ups is small comfort to their troubled minds.

I agree that when the children are too young to understand, or when they are unable to help in the least, there is no sense in pouring trouble on their spirits. But when it is so simple a thing as cutting down an allowance they ought to be told promptly. They are entitled to that much confidence and opportunity. They would gladly, happily rise to the occasion and do all they could. It gives a son or daughter a tremendous stimulus to feel that help from him count.

All that aside, young people cannot be shielded from the troubles of life. They must face their share, and no amount of sheltering will alter that. It may make their lot more difficult by training them to be weak sisters and wobbly brothers. Let them share in the bad times as well as the good; let them share the sorrow as well as the joy of the family, and they will be the stronger and happier for it.

When father or mother goes to the hospital don't try to tell the older children that it is nothing. Let them know what you know. If some family disaster threatens, let the older children understand about it so they can behave intelligently, be of assistance. Even though it be sympathetic silence it will be spiritually comforting and truly heartening.

Let us understand about this. Young children, who cannot understand and cannot help, are not to be loaded down with the troubles of

Woman Who Stays Inside Is Lifeless

BY ELSIE PIERCE
"WALK IN my house—a half a mile—not me, we either take the car or you count me out."
Walking—and—outdoors. The perfect setting up exercises to be taken as often as possible. And that perfect combination is too often turned down. Why? Laziness? Perhaps. But only in rare cases. Fear of fresh air is more nearly the reason, and fear of cold at this season.

Yet all women have to do is school themselves, accustom themselves gradually to a daily jaunt out of doors, no matter what the weather, except really severe storms, of course.

The chances are that she who fears the fresh air, the outdoors and the exercise does not get enough of any of these vitally important contributors to health and beauty. The chances are, too, that the indoor body loses out in the beauty race.

Gray Skin
One characteristic of the indoor body is gray skin; a dull, sluggish, lifeless-looking skin. Local treatment may help; patting with skin tonic may temporarily wake up the skin for a while; masque treatments are splendid to whip up the circulation and give the skin a transparency and a glow. However, the best way to combat that leaden look is to get out, breathe deeply, move briskly, exercise to stimulate the circulation. Remember that your own blood stream can do wonders far above, and longer lasting, than the finest collection of cosmetics in the world. That doesn't mean that cosmetics are to be dispensed with. Far from it. Cosmetics backed by a firm foundation of health automatically double their value, doing their duty nobly.

If you get out, breathe deeply, exercise, get the blood circulating properly, bring a natural glow to your cheeks, then capture and heighten the color with cosmetics, your skin will doubtless have that clear, luminous, colorful quality envied by all women and admired by the sterner sex.

Humor is another characteristic of the indoor body, particularly if that body sits around and sits around which she probably does. Hunched shoulders, cramped lungs, lack-luster eyes are still more characteristics. But they can all be routed with the same prescription. . . . the double dose of fresh air and exercise. . . . yes, even in the winter and just because it is winter. Educate yourself to exercise in the open.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

A B C'S IN MANNERS
This column is the second under the above heading, which as I explained last week, a great many teachers have asked me to print regularly.

1—Should schoolgirls ever use bright red finger nail polish either at school or at parties after school hours?
Answer: I think deep red finger nail polish atrocious on any one, but on a schoolgirl quite as bad as vivid make-up, or if anything, worse. Nails neatly manicured are of course proper as long as the color of the polish is not too conspicuous—especially while the girl is very young.

2—When entertaining a young man and the door-bell rings and there is no servant to answer the door and the other members of the family are upstairs, should the girl go to the door or should the young man offer to go for her?
Answer: I think she should go in her own house.

3—Should a wrist watch ever be worn with an evening dress?
Answer: This depends on the wrist watch. If it can in any way be considered an adornment, then yes, but if it is intended for utility—set in a leather strap for example—it would be no more suitable than wearing walking shoes with an evening dress.

4—Is it ever considered for a girl to assist a boy with his coat?
Answer: No, not unless he has a broken arm or is otherwise disabled.

5—When a school friend's grandparent dies, and one has often stayed in this school friend's house and therefore knows the family, would it be nice to write a letter to her mother when it is the father's parent who has died?
Answer: Under most circumstances you would write to the mother, but if you know the father equally well, then it would be equally proper to write to him direct.

6—May light colored evening dresses be worn in the winter time? I don't mean velvets or any of the heavier winter materials, but am referring to chiffon and taffeta.
Answer: I think this is a question of fashion. At present dresses of light colored thin materials are being worn everywhere, and such being the case they are particularly suitable for young people. Clothes in winter are somewhat

Human Husbands Crave for Affection of Their Wives

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Dorothy Dix—Mr. A. W. B., who recently wrote you about how husbands craved tenderness from their wives and longed for their wives' kisses and caresses, and for their wives to tell them how wonderful they are, is giving you a lot of hokum. Don't believe it. I have yet to come in contact with a woman who does not caress her husband far more than he caresses to extinction by their wives showing them affection. The "I love you darling" of their wives receives a mumbled "uh huh" and a deeper withdrawal into their newspapers, with no other sign that the sweet words were even heard, unless the wife has a quick enough eye to catch the almost imperceptible shrug of his shoulders (he is so bored by it all he doesn't even bother to give a healthy shrug).

As for telling husband "that he is wonderful" how can any self-respecting woman say those words to a man who can't resist the coquettish eye of another woman? Is sort of cramps a wife's style in kissing to know that her husband prefers any other woman's kisses to hers.

And what real pep can a wife put into expressing her appreciation of what her husband does for her when he shoves a check at her and tells her he doesn't know what she wants or throws a present on the table and when she tries to thank him with a kiss and utter sweet nothings in his ear, he just grunts?

And when a wife asks her husband to give her a kiss what does she get? A peck on the cheek or something that is as flabby as a flapjack on the back of her head or the rim of her ear, and that is more of an insult than a caress.

No, emphatically no. I cannot agree with Mr. A. W. B. Trying to caress a husband is like trying to caress an ice machine.

MRS. C. V. V.

Nevertheless, Mrs. C.V.V., Mr. A.W.B. is right. There are human husbands who crave their wives' affection, just as there are frigid ones who regard wives as household conveniences instead of lady loves.

more elaborate in design and less skimpy in their use of material.

7—Is it considered impolite to begin eating before every one at table has been served?
Answer: When two others have been served it is considered entirely polite to begin eating slowly.
(Copyright, 1937)

There are husbands who starve for tenderness from their wives, and there are other men who only want their wives to provide them with a good dinner.

Men, as a rule, are a great deal more sentimental and romantic than they are given credit for being, and undoubtedly most of them secretly desire their wives to continue to regard them as heart-smashers even after they get fat, bald and bay-windowed. They want their wives to keep ardently in love with them and to tell them how handsome and fascinating they are and to generally keep up the cajoleries of courtship. And Mr. A.W.B. is right when he says that the woman who does this seldom loses her husband to another woman.

But even these men who want their wives to keep in love with them overlook one important point, and that is that it takes two to play the love game. It isn't solitary. No woman can put any heart into billing and cooing over a man who is more interested in the stock market than he is in her. No woman can bestow a warm kiss on a graven image. No woman is going to waste sweet talk on a man who only grunts by way of reply.

It is just as true of husbands as it is of wives that if they want to be kissed they must keep themselves kissable, and if they want love and tenderness from their wives they must put themselves in the attitude to receive the blessing, as old-fashioned Methodists used to say.

Nothing is a greater tragedy than that so many marriages lose all the romance, beauty and sweetness with which they started out and degenerate into nothing but a dry-as-dust arrangement of two people living together in a sort of endurance contest. Nothing is so sad as that so many husbands and wives cease to be lovers and become nothing but vengeances. The fault is not so often the wife's as the husband's. It is he who generally drops the love-making first, and by his indifferent attitude makes it impossible for her to keep up her love-making.

Hollywood News And Gossip By Robbin Coon

Hollywood—Professional exile in England has wrought a miracle for Douglass Montgomery: he has returned a confirmed Californian.

He is climate-conscious; and he agrees with visiting Englishmen and easterners that it is something to be able to pick an orange from a tree at the foot of a snow-mantled peak. Roses in January, and surf and snow sports running concurrently, now seem to him as marvelous as they should to the blurb artists.

Furthermore, he has brought back an acute attack of patriotism. In his native Californian youth, he liked to think of himself as a "citizen of the world," just as he thought of California as a point of departure for New York. Nationalism, he thought, stamped one as insular. But now—his Uncle Sammy's boy.

Douglass was home-sweet-homeing thus over many cups of tea, a mountainous salad and a substantial dish labeled Lady Cavendish crumpets. Crumpets and tea—h-m-m-m.

He caught the suspicious gleam in his inquisitor's eye.

"I know," he said, "I know. I'm being embarrassed by tea. People thing I've gone British. But I've always been a bound for tea. And crumpets—well, I eat everything. I've a rapacious appetite. I'm on the wagon in all possible ways—no liquor, no wine, no cigarettes—since January 1. I'm a smug model of virtue and what virtue does for the appetite."

Proceeding by ravenous attacks on his plate to prove his point, he told of the play which will take him back to New York, his role, again one of those wide-eyed juveniles from which he fled to England. "Little Man. What Now?" has matured considerably—especially in bulk—but the Martin Flavin play was the only one he liked among those available.

He meant to stop those parts," he said, "while I'm still young enough to play them. That's why I'm in Hollywood in disguise—an old man's lump, this (he indicated his moustache) and circles under the eyes. I keep on hoping some director will notice."

The moustache, at least was real. His only "lump" was in a wrist, broken by a fall during the making of an English picture. The break, it seems, is one of those that baffle surgeons, and Douglass' pride of possession is dampened by his confusion and inconvenience.

Fat Girls Get The Go-By—Slim Girls Win Men
Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

Here's a way to get rid of ugly fat that works hand in hand with Nature. Millions of people are losing millions of pounds of flabby flesh and getting back slender figures, without the need of starvation diets or back-breaking exercises.

Medical science has discovered that one of the causes of too much fat lies in a little gland, the thyroid, which is tiny gland to make about one drop and a half every day of a vital fluid. This helps the body "burn" up food and excess fatty tissues just as a good draft of air helps the furnace burn up coal without forming "clinkers." If this little gland doesn't make this drop and a half of fluid every 24 hours, many people who are ugly fat.

Doctors correct this condition by feeding this little gland the substance it lacks—and Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on this same method. Millions are using them with success. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory. Their formula is published in every package so you know what you are taking.

So don't waste time and money with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Go to your druggist today and get a box of Marmola. Try this simple, easy way to get rid of excess fat.

Reporter Finds Dearth of 'Art' in Calendar Offerings for This Year

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
By their calendars ye shall know them—sometimes.
Come the late weeks in December and the first few days in January of every year and there's the usual scurry for calendars, or may-be you happen to be one of the favored persons who receives one or more in the mail.
If you have one hanging around your office or home or den, chances are you have it there for business reasons, to keep track of the date. But if you have several they probably indicate a love for the out-of-doors or an artistic sense—and there's where the rub, or the embarrassment often comes in.
The current year appears to be characterized by a dearth-in—well it's art in the galleries so it must be art on the calendars—fair young things in various poses in daring bathing suits or displaying shimmering, sleek hose and perhaps the manufacturers heard the story they tell in one Appleton office.
It appears that the three or four gentlemen who occupied the office had a penchant for girls on calendars and the walls usually had several. But one day the wife of one of the gentlemen happened along and commented about the decorations. The comment might have been brushed aside except that the panicky partner became alarmed at the inference and came up with the statement "No, those are (the lady's husband's name) calendars."
Since then the calendars have been of a more moderate type and rather typical of those of engineering firms which advertise their machinery or snow plows or buildings they constructed. That is, all except one fair girl whose picture had remained on the wall for 10 these many years with the calendar pad being changed annually.
But calendars have generally gone rather conservative this year. Around the fire department you'll find calendars with large pads and advertisements. There seems to be no artistic sense there.
This Is No Inference
At the police station there annually was a calendar typical of police work. The first showed a sergeant "Calling all cars" and a year later (no inferences here) it showed a picture entitled "We caught our man."
This year however, a large panoramic scene indicating the trend of the times hangs over the sergeant's desk with the old-time methods of transportation in the foreground and the new in the background. Another calendar shows a cub bear who has learned that all that looks like a fish isn't, for he has his paw caught on the hooks of a fishing plug. And then there's a railroad calendar from an eastern line showing a streamlined and a regular locomotive.
But by their calendars ye shall know them—sometimes. And at Oscar Kunitz's lively office there's a rather prominent calendar bearing a religious scene.
Here They Are
Just wander through your home or office and look over the calendars. We'll look through the Post-Crescent for you.
In the editorial room you'll find just one calendar, one with large dates on it so it can be seen from any point in the room, and it's horri-bly business-like for the editorial room is a place for work.
The same is true of the composing room but in the advertising service room they appear a little inclined to travel and a clipper ship adorns one side of the wall and a couple more engines the other.
The press room presents a study and an indication of artistic appreciation for their are several calendars there. One shows a panoramic view of a small northern city with an industrial plant in prominent position, while another has a pert young thing walking down the center of the picture with her dog.
And then there's one that any lover of the out-of-doors would pay to have although it might cause his mind to wander at certain hunting periods of the year. It shows several small hunting scenes surrounding a large picture of a hunter taking a duck from his dog. One could waste a lot of hours studying that calendar.
And then over the work bench of our own Eddie Starnard you'll find a calendar of a bronzed Indian chief beating on a drum apparently making a lot of noise.
Yes, by their calendars ye shall know them—sometimes.

Pupils Make Perfect Record for Semester

Twelve pupils of Knowledge Hill school, town of Hortonville, were neither absent nor tardy during the entire first semester of the school year, Miss Margaret Sambs, teacher, has reported to F. P. Young, county superintendent.

OUT THAT COLD

—Roots and All—Give It No Chance to Sprout Anew!

Take no cold lightly! The so-called "common cold" is often the start of more serious trouble—flu and pneumonia, for example.
Treat a cold to rout it, not merely to subdue it!
Depend on no half-way measures. A cold, being an internal infection, must be got at from the inside.
Treat a cold with a cold preparation, not with a medicine good for all kinds of ailments.
The wise treatment is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.
Expressly For Colds!
Bromo Quinine is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds.
It is also internal treatment and of four important effects.
First, Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, a desirable step in the treatment of colds.
Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.
Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.
The Action Called For
These are the four effects a cold calls for and in Bromo Quinine you get it in the form of a single tablet. Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain.
The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.
Be wise—play safe! The moment you feel a cold coming on, go right to your druggist for a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.
Begin taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours. That procedure will often break up a cold in 24 hours.
Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Ask for, and insist upon, Grove's Bromo Quinine. The cost is small, but the stain is large.

Cloverdale pupils who scored perfect records during the third 6-week period are Victoria, Geneva, Vernon and Roy Duhm, Virginia Eberhard, Lyle Fockel, Junior Fockel, Helen, Violet, Gladys, Betty and LeRoy Wickesberg, Wallace and Merlin Nieland.

Pupils Build Replicas Of Buildings in World

Types of buildings in various parts of the world were studied by fourth grade pupils of Miss Magdalen Kohl's class at Jefferson Grade school last week as part of a geography project. Pupils constructed miniature replicas of the types of homes which included adobe houses, log cabins, colonial homes and those of foreigners. The group started a transportation project this week.

Accidents on the new auto highways and country roads of Germany increased 28 per cent in the year ending in October.

Vikes Forget Beloit; Meet Carroll Here Tonight

THIS WEEK'S SCORES
Beloit 31, Lawrence 18.
Cornell 30, Coe 28.

"FORGET about that Beloit game—Carroll's a another game and we'll be back on our own floor where we can play basketball and good basketball." Coach Arthur C. Denney told his Lawrence college cagers yesterday afternoon when they gathered for a short workout preparatory to tonight's battle with Carroll college at Alexander gymnasium.

And the Viking mentor meant just what he said for he was willing to blame the loss on the jinx that has followed his club down state almost every year for as far back as he can remember. "It was just one of those things," he commented, for he appreciates, after watching the Vikes humble Coe, that they can play a lot better ball than they showed Tuesday night.

He attributed the defeat to a general fitness collapse because, in the second half, his charges played the Gold even. Among other things the Vikes missed 12 out of 18 free throws with several veterans being the worst offenders, the forwards missed easy setups and then began to get panicky while Beloit found itself with an "on" night and everything coming its way.

Reserves Show Well
The only bright light in the exhibition, so far as Denney was concerned, was that he discovered he has some fairly good reserve material in Jackson, a forward, and that Bennetts, who has played almost everywhere, can be used to advantage at guard. Jackson was the Viking high scorer at Beloit and missed a couple shots he might have gotten if he'd had a little more experience. As a result he may see more action when the regular forwards have an off night.

However, Denney will probably start the same five men tonight who started the Coe game with Kapp at center, Burton and Osen at the forwards and Straubel and Faleide at the guards.

Carroll will bring a ball club to Appleton that has played some good games this season and some that weren't so good. The Pioneers opened the season by losing to Concord, Chicago and Illinois and then snapped out of the doldrums to beat Plattville, North Central and St. Norbert, the latter by a one-sided score that indicated a lot of power.

Leading the Pioneers is Jim Knoklauch, center, who will be playing one of the few remaining games of his college career for the graduates next month. Against St. Norbert he was the big scorer and against North Central he accounted for 10 points.

Another high scorer for the Pioneers is Art Buck, whose antics on the football field here last fall still are remembered. He paced his team in the North Central game with seven field goals and a free toss. Bob Knoklauch plays the other forward and Barnes and Beggs, veterans, play the guards.

The evening's program will open at 7 o'clock with the Lawrence freshmen battling the Carroll yearlings. The Viking yearlings have swept over all opposition this season but will get their biggest test tonight.

St. Therese in Upset
Win Over St. John Five

St. Therese Catholic parochial school cagers turned in a surprise 12 to 3 victory in defeating the Little Chute St. John quint Wednesday afternoon at the Roosevelt Junior High school gymnasium. The St. Therese defense functioned so smoothly that the league leading St. John five was held to one field goal. Grooten and Burton led the St. Therese squad and Houfek and Fisher also contributed field goals. St. Therese led 5 to 0 at halftime and 7 to 2 at the end of the third quarter.

An old cowhand, no doubt. When he isn't hunting, Pepper Martin strums the guitar and puffs at the harmonica down in Oklahoma for his singing daughters, Virginia Lee, 4 (left), and Mary Alynne, 8. "Yep," says Pepper, "maybe Ruby (Mrs. Martin) and the girls and me will try vaudeville."

FRIDAY'S GAMES

Reedsville at Wrightstown.
Hilbert at Brillion.
Kimberly at Denmark.
Seymour at Shiocton.
Winneconne at Bear Creek.
Freedom at Hortonville.

SEYMOUR High school basketball team will clash with the up and coming Shiocton High school five at Shiocton's home floor, Stephenville hall, in the feature game of the western division of the Little Nine conference Friday night. Seymour has won five straight games while Shiocton has shown possibilities and last week won a 21 to 20 thriller from Bear Creek.

Hortonville will show on its home floor Friday with Freedom as its opponent and is expected to cop easily. The Polar Bears crashed through with a 21 to 20 win over Winneconne last week when the clubs tossed free throws to determine the outcome after playing two overtimes in which neither club scored.

In the other western division game Winneconne plays at Bear Creek.

Eastern division play will feature Kimberly at Denmark where the Danes will attempt to hang up their sixth straight win. In the other games Reedsville opposes Wrightstown and Hilbert goes to Brillion in the second half of several period games. They just seemed to "spark" Monday at second half, that's all. Their shots began to swish in their defense began to function at the same time. I hope they can keep it up," Foster added.

In the meantime, the Badgers will practically drop active training for two weeks. Practice sessions were scheduled only for Wednesday and Friday this week, with the whole matter of next week's work-out left to the individuals, who will come out when their examinations permit, for light, informal drills only. Wisconsin's next game will be with Michigan State, here, Feb. 6.

It is a rare occurrence when, in a major basketball game, a team outscored 20 to 11 in the first half, scored 20 to win as decisively, in the second half, as Wisconsin defeated Iowa, Monday night. The Hawkeyes, who had sunk seven baskets in the first period, failed to get one in the second half, in which they were limited to three free throws, while the Badgers were making 18 points.

George Rooney, as usual, was the sparkplug of the Badger five, scoring nine points and repeatedly dribbling through the Hawkeye defense as well as playing a superb defensive game. Gratifying to Coach Foster, too, was the return to form of Lee Mitchell, husky junior guard who played his best game of the year, scoring four goals and putting on a magnificent exhibition of defensive basketball. Bob Weigandt recent recruit from the football squad, also played a snappy game at the other guard position. Although charged with several bad passes he eventually settled down, scored five points and was a power in the Badger defense.

Diz Says He'll Show
Baseball Golfers How

Sarasota, Fla. —(AP)—Dizzy Dean avowed today he would "show them guys what golfing is"—meaning the other 32 baseball stars who sought the national baseball players golf championship.

With becoming modesty Dizzy said that next to himself he thought Lloyd Brown had the best chance to win the tournament opening today. He backed his belief by paying $50 for the Cleveland pitcher's chance in the players pool.

Wesley Ferrell, hurler for the Boston Red Sox, is defending the Powell Crosley trophy. Eighteen holes will be played daily, with finals on Sunday.

The players' from both major and minor leagues, include two brother combinations, Wes and Rick Ferrell, of the Boston Red Sox, and Paul and Lloyd Waner, of Pittsburgh.

LAST NIGHT'S SCORE

St. John 28, Kimberly 17 (non-conference)

LITTLE CHUTE — St. John Catholic High school basketball team won its second game this season from Kimberly when it defeated the Papermakers here last night at St. John school, 28 to 17. Friday night the Chutes will meet Pulaski here in another non-conference game.

The contest was enlivened by a rabid group of rooters from both Kimberly and Little Chute but the Chutes did the most cheering, especially when it became obvious that Francis Van Hoof had regained his shooting eye. He accounted for six field goals and two free throws for 14 points, half his team's total. Van Hoof also held Van Dyke, Kimberly center, scoreless.

St. John took a 9 to 5 lead in the opening quarter and increased the edge to 14 to 7 at the half. In the third stanza it ran up a 19 to 7 lead with Kimberly being held scoreless. The last quarter showed reserves playing for the Chutes.

Kimberly Scores First

The game opened with Vandenberg tossing a short shot to give Kimberly the lead. Krueger added to it with a gift shot but Van Hoof came back with a pair of buckets and the Chutes went out in front never to be headed. Vandenberg's free throw tied the count but Joe Verstegen got a sleeper on an out of bounds play and Van Hoof sank a pivot shot and was fouled and made the throw giving Little Chute a 9 to 5 lead at the quarter.

In the second quarter Van Asten scored from the free throw lane with a left handed toss. Peeters got a one-hander and later a free throw to give the Dutchmen a 14 to 7 lead at the half. Kimberly's only score was a bucket by Rooyackers. The third quarter saw Van Hoof get a charity shot, Peeters a basket, Joe Verstegen two free throws, Van Hoof a pivot shot and St. John take a 19 to 7 lead with Kimberly going scoreless.

The fourth quarter saw Boney Verstegen score a bucket and Van Hoof another and Little Chute led 23 to 7. Henry Van Thiel, Van Asten and Krueger then went in for the Chutes and Kimberly started to sprint and Van Boogard got a free throw and Kobs a bucket but Little Chute led 23 to 10.

Van Hoof scored a one-hander for the Chutes and Rooyackers a dribble in shot for Kimberly. Van Asten dribbled the length of the floor to score for the Chutes but Kobs came back with a free toss and Rooyackers a field goal for Kimberly. Each team gets a free throw just before the game ended.

In the preliminary St. John reserves beat Kimberly reserves, 22 to 16. The Saints led 6 to 4 at the quarter, 9 to 8 at the half and 16 to 11 at the third quarter.

Chicago Planning Golf Tournament in June

Chicago — (P) — Chicago will brighten the summer campaign of the boys who play golf for a living with an open tournament that may offer as much as $10,000 in prize money.

The event, 72 holes of medal play, will be staged in June by the Chicago District Golf association, probably the week following the national open title battle at the Oakland Hills Country Club near Detroit. The open will be played June 10-12, and the C. D. G. A. board of directors, which approved the plan last night, figures to catch the championship field on the first bounce.

The amount of the purse was not announced but it was understood that it would range between $7,500 and $10,000, which would make the tournament the richest on the summer schedule.

Jordan College Will Have Hockey Sextet

Menominee, Mich.—Kenneth Olsen, former Milwaukee amateur star, was appointed coach of the newly-organized Jordan college hockey team this week by the board of athletics, according to an announcement by the Rev. William Nern, S.D.S., chairman. Olsen, a senior in the school of arts and sciences, succeeds Edmund Hengesh, Escanaba senior, who has been acting coach since the sport was added to the athletic program two weeks ago.

Father Nern announced that the squad will play its first game Monday night with the Gladstone city team, crack amateur club, at Gladstone. A return game at the Jordan rink in Marinette has been tentatively arranged for Monday, Feb. 1.

Other games are pending with the Michigan College of Mines, Houghton, and with several outstanding city and amateur teams in Wisconsin and Michigan, including the Green Bay All-Stars, the Marquette Millionaires, Escanaba Blackhawks, Portage Lake, Fond du Lac, and Oshkosh.

Appling Asking Sox for $20,000

But Comiskey Figures $15,000 and $2,500 Bonus Is Enough

Chicago — (P) — Luke Appling, the major league batting champion in 1936, has a salary increase coming, owner J. Louis Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox, agrees, but they are having a little trouble getting together on the size of the boost.

Appling, who played shortstop and topped both major leagues in hitting with a .384 average, has made his asking price $20,000 for 1937. He received about $12,000 last year. Comiskey thinks a contract calling for $15,000 and a bonus which might raise the figure to $17,500, is about right.

The bonus will depend on how good a season the Sox have at the gate. Commenting on the $20,000 request, Comiskey who does not consider the Georgian a holdout, said: "Luke was the best shortstop in the league for a little more than half that figure last year and I figure he's entitled to a good raise. I think he will be satisfied with the contract we offered. We're asking him to gamble with us on the gate, but we won't have to go over last year's attendance figure to give him a $2,500 bonus—and $17,500 is a pretty good salary."

Comiskey's prize hurler last year, Vernon Kennedy, who won 21 games and lost only nine decisions, came to Chicago yesterday for an examination of a knee injury suffered late in the 1936 season. The knee has been sore, but the examination revealed no signs of bone growth.

Marion basketball team, undefeated leader in the Central Wisconsin conference, will seek its fifth straight victory Friday evening when it invades Amherst. The possibilities of victory are rather high because the Amherst club holds a tie for the bottom rung in standings with one win and three defeats. Marion knocked off Tigerton the other evening in a non-league game as a warmup for the conference contest.

Manawa will move to Waupaca in the hopes of tripping the Potato Diggers and moving into a second place tie. Both teams won last week, Manawa defeating Amherst, 31 to 21, and Waupaca tripping Weyauwega, 18 to 14.

In the other league contest Weyauwega goes to Iola to see which will move out of the cellar triple tie.

Finn Heavy in 10-Round Victory

Experts Say Gunnar Barlund Ready for Whirl In Big Time

New York — (P) — One and all the fight experts were agreed today that Gunnar Barlund is ready for the big time.

The Finn, who hasn't lost a fight since coming to the United States several months ago, completed his apprenticeship in the promising youngster's class of heavyweight hopefuls by soundly whipping Tom Beupre, the Texas knockout specialist, over the ten-round route at the Hippodrome last night.

Despite the K.O. reputation Beupre brought from Texas, Barlund had a surprisingly easy time. The Texan landed only one real hard blow, a jarring right which shook Barlund momentarily in the seventh.

Barlund, scaling 196 to his opponent's 193, was the aggressor throughout. In the fourth and ninth rounds he had Beupre groggy and smeared with blood, and from the first round on, the Texan's nose was dripping red.

Three of the ranking heavyweights, Champion Jim Braddock, Joe Louis and Bob Pastor, who meets Louis on the 29th, were in the crowd of 4,500.

New London Gets Cage Tournament

Accepts Regional Meet to Be Held Friday, Saturday, March 19-20

New London — The northeastern Wisconsin regional basketball tournament will be played at New London Friday and Saturday, March 19 and 20, it was announced yesterday by H. H. Helms, superintendent of schools, as the result of a meeting of high school principals at Green Bay Tuesday evening.

Winners of the Class B district tournaments at Kaukauna and Oconto and the Class C tournaments at Marion, Kimberly, Peshtigo and Sturgeon Bay will play off here to enter the state finals.

The tournament was offered to New London at an earlier date but the offer was refused until a shift was made in the schools participating. The shifting of Marion and Kaukauna districts to the New London meet was considered more satisfactory.

Pro Cagers Will Battle for Title

Art Imigs, Sheboygan, and Oshkosh All Stars Clash Saturday

Oshkosh — Battling for the professional basketball championship of the state of Wisconsin the Oshkosh All Stars and the Art Imigs of Sheboygan will clash here Saturday evening. They are the two outstanding pro teams in the state, the former being the present titleholder and the latter being former champs with a desire to again wear the crown.

The All Stars hold an edge over the lakeshores city quintet in number of games won this season, but past records are expected to get little consideration when the teams meet and mix it up with the crown at stake.

Oshkosh has won 13 in 15 starts against some of the strongest pro teams in the country, including two wins out of three games last weekend with the Whiting, Ind. Ciesars, who included Bill Haarlow and Joe Reiff, ex-Big Ten greats.

Have Lot of Power

The Art Imigs hold wins over some of the strongest traveling teams and have plenty of offensive power as demonstrated in a game against the House of David aggregation when they ran up 27 points. The bearded boys don't lose many of them, having won 87 last season and lost only 12 during that time.

A second game between the All Stars and Art Imigs will be played at Sheboygan, Jan. 27.

The Oshkosh All Stars will have its roster of All-American and all-conference players to pit against Sheboygan. Heading the list is All-American Ed Mullen, Marquette, an outstanding guard. Teamed with him in the backcourt is Ray Hamann, Wisconsin. Regular forwards are Augie Vander Meulen, former Carroll flash; Pete Prebost, Wisconsin; and Jim Goff, Illinois Normal. Alternating at center are Bill Mangum, Marquette, and Herman Wisel, North Dakota university. Fritz Wegner, Wisconsin, is an alternate guard.

St. Norbert Boys On Boxing Card

Canadae, Scarlotta, Anderson, Kenneally to Fight At Green Bay

Green Bay—The amateur fight card which Green Bay fans have been awaiting all season has been announced for the Columbus Community club Tuesday evening, Jan. 26. The program will be featured by the appearance of St. Norbert college's five outstanding boxers.

In a double bout of five rounds each Saviour Canadae, St. Norbert 145-pounder, will fight Eddie Strand, Poskin, and Al Scarlatta, St. Norbert, 118 pounds, will battle Earl Noel, Marinette, Press-Gazette Golden Gloves champion.

Urich On Card

Al Urich, St. Norbert 180-pounder, is scheduled to fight Harold Gerarden, Green Bay, and Tom Kenneally. St. Norbert heavyweight will take on Ken Allmers of Oshkosh.

Another good scrap will match John Anderson, St. Norbert, with Steve Kenjallo, Iron Mountain, at 133 pounds. Merrill Boehm, outstanding Green Bay amateur, will appear against Billy Noel of Marinette in a 130-pound fight.

The opener will pit Lionel Boehm, Green Bay, against Les Walthers, Sheboygan, at 135 pounds. Les Holzer, Appleton, is matchmaker for the program.

Browns Got Edge In Recent Trade

So Says Pie Traynor, Manager of Pittsburgh's Pirates

Indianapolis — (P) — The St. Louis Browns came away out on top in the recent player swap with the Cleveland Indians, Harold (Pie) Traynor, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, thinks.

The Browns traded Julius Solters, Ivy Andrews, and Lynn Lary for the Indians' Oral Hildebrand, Joe Vosmik and Billy Knickerbocker.

"The boys at St. Louis knew what they were doing," Traynor said while a guest of the Indiana house of representatives.

Vosmik? "He wasn't so hot last year but you can look for a big season in 1937; the records show he has a great year every other season," the Pirates' chieftain explained.

Hildebrand? "Everyone thinks Hildebrand is a potential 20-game winner; maybe the change in atmosphere will do him good."

Knickerbocker? "A swell ball player," Traynor said. Knickerbocker's mediocre season last year probably could be traced to an appendicitis operation.

Solters, Andrews and Lary? "Good ball players, but the Indians came out second best."

They 'Jack Up' Prices on Those Coming Out Parties

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington—A little quiet inquiry among my waiter and bartender friends at the height of the celebration festivities inclined me sadly to the belief that some of the recent debuts, New Year parties and similar frivolities of the idle rich were priced by ambulance-chasers.

It is notorious that when a bustling attorney-at-law comes up with a client who has had $15 worth of skin scraped off his nose by a house detective for doing feats of strength in a hotel lobby, the attorney always sets as an asking price of $50,000.

My friends among the waiters and bartenders assure me that it is utterly impossible for a thousand guests to eat and drink even $25,000 worth in a night even though the night be stretched on past the coming of dawn and the party calls for scrambled eggs as a sedative.

It appears that the idle rich are by no means careless about their buying when they decide to ring the welkin which may be one of the reasons why they remain rich. The provisions are acquired in the most businesslike manner, with discounts for quantity and cash and though the guest may give their happy spirits full play and do the split and skin the cat from the crystal chandeliers that does not indicate that the host has yielded too.

It appears that, on the contrary, the host will be keeping a cold, impersonal eye on the hired help to make sure that none of them send out full champagne bottles among the dead.

So it averages up at about 50 cents a head for chicken salad:

The music, of course, does some expensive costing for our host but not enough to justify the estimates which are lightly placed on certain festivities and the bower effects are stretched out with storehouse scenery and backdrops and palms of the type which used to stand in all respectable saloons.

Then it costs Money to Import Those Stags

To this must be added the cost of importing the stags from the stations on the ivy circuit because the stags are furnished by booking-agents, a good deal like the waiters, and they are strictly F.O.B. The hostess merely calls up the booking agent and demands one hundred or two hundred assorted stags and the agent wires them to get their money suits pressed because there is a big scuff-touch on the program for Saturday night.

My waiter, and bartender friends tell me that you just ought to see the genial host or hostess scraping up the chicken salad and peering under the tables and behind the doors for concealed champagne just after the jolly guests have staggered away from a big debut. They insist also that they could guarantee to give one of those $50,000 parties for $25,000 and come up with a nice profit.

People Really Like Those Big, Careless Figures

People like those big, careless figures and I suppose it does no harm to give a host credit for sending it in real fast on a big night in the debut and debauchery season.

"They do not all drink champagne," one of my waiter friends reports. "Lots of them drink whiskey and if the host can get a Harvard or Yale or Princeton stag away to a fast start with scotch or bourbon he is saving more money there because they can hold only so much, but hootch is cheap and you will find that they boost it at the start of the evening."

"Of course, they all probably will switch to wine after a while but by the time the joy becomes unconfined you can start running in the cheap champagne covered with napkins. After an hour or so they do not know the difference between house paint and developing fluid. A great saving is possible."

So Those Vindas are Not So Rare, Perhaps

For another thing, my waiter and bartender friends tell me that the rare vindas and exotic delicacies at such parties are pretty much a figure of speech. The rare vindas and exotic delicacies consist mainly of chicken salad, liberally stretched with veal and celery, followed by more chicken salad if a stag forgets where he set down his plate. My friends estimate that you could get by for about 50 cents per head on the salad for a mere $500 for a thousand guests.

True, some of the young stags who are imported from the ivy circuit do not eat very consistently between debuts and save their appetites for parties. But on the other hand there are always a certain number who pass out cold early in the evening and eat nothing at all.

Appleton Firm Is Lowest Bidder on Waupaca Projects

Board of Public Works Recommends Contracts For Sewage Plant

Special to Post-Crescent

Waupaca—At a regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening, the board of public works reported that the R. J. Wilson Co., of Appleton was the lowest bidder on the following projects: sewage treatment plant with outfall sewer, $22,751.00; sewage treatment plant without brick building over clarifier and without pump pit, $20,951.00; inlet sewer from Third ward, $1,902.00; alternate outfall sewer B, $700.00; Sisson street pumping station, $1,636.00.

The Fairbanks Morse Co. of Chicago bid for pumps was $820; the Link Belt Co., Chicago, for clarifier, $1,657; the Graver Tank and Mfg. Co., East Chicago, Ind., for gas holder cover, $2,368; these being the lowest bidders for the items mentioned, the board of public works recommended that they be awarded the contracts.

The board recommended also that for the present the brick building over the clarifier and the pump pit be eliminated, and the Wilson bid for $20,951 be accepted. No action will be taken until next Tuesday night when an adjourned meeting of the council will be held. These contracts are to be let with the understanding and agreement that, in case an additional federal grant is received, they will at the direction of the city perform such other and additional work herein omitted, at prices for same given in their bids.

The total cost of construction of sewage disposal plant will amount to $30,280; included in this are preliminary expenses of $150.00, engineering fees of $1,549, supervision costs of $925, and legal and administrative expenses of $300.

This is a WPA project, for which a Federal grant of 45 per cent was made last fall. The amount to be paid by the city for such construction is $16,344.

The board of public works also presented a resolution for bonding the city of Waupaca in the sum of $30,000 for the purpose of constructing the sewage plant. This resolution was ordered published in the local newspaper for the next two weeks.

A separate construction account is to be set up for the plant, and the sum of $18,500 provided by the city for that purpose is to be set aside for this and no other purpose. All payments for work, materials and all engineering and supervision fees to be paid out of this fund, on forms and vouchers approved by the FWA representative and the city's engineer in charge of the work.

The city also ordered the purchase from Miles Loberg, as the lowest bidder, of a one and one-half ton truck at $625.00 to replace the old one now in use by the city. The truck is to be delivered within 10 days.

Kaw Boxers and Wrestlers Meet Chuter Squads

30 Boys at Kaukauna High Seek Places on Team to Represent School

Kaukauna—Fisticuffs and grappling holds will be demonstrated when 20 wrestlers and boxers of Kaukauna High school will climb through the ropes to oppose battlers of Little Chute High at 7:45 Monday evening at the St. John's gymnasium, Little Chute.

Coach Clifford Kemp has not selected the Kaukauna fighters for the matches, but his final selection will be easy as all 30 candidates leave little to be desired by the high school sports fan.

The entire team, which has been practicing since before Christmas recess, in preparation for inter-scholastic bouts in which victory merits participants coveted numerical and letter awards.

On Wednesday, Feb. 3, local fight fans will have opportunity to witness the Kaw fighters in action at the high school gymnasium, when Neenah High boxers and wrestlers come here to clash on a professional sized ring to be erected in the center of the basketball court.

Rotary Leads Efforts for World Peace, Speaker Says

Kaukauna — "Supplementing the work of the world's Christian churches in efforts to bring about international peace and good will, the Rotary International organization is the greatest force for good in existence today," Charles Humphrey, Ironwood, Mich., governor of Rotary International clubs in the tenth district, told members of the Kaukauna Rotary club following a dinner at Hotel Kaukauna yesterday.

It was District Governor Humphrey's annual visit with the Kaukauna Rotarians. The meeting was in charge of H. S. Cooke, president.

"It is remarkable with what seriousness the Rotary movement is regarded by foreigners," Mr. Humphrey said. "Our brothers abroad look toward Rotary as the one organization capable of bringing about world peace, after all the various and numerous treaties and diplomatic pacts have failed."

The speaker narrated instances of good-will spreading in the Orient by members of the club, and cited cases where interpreters were employed during meetings of representatives of several races.

"No nation has contributed more to the world's culture and science than Germany, yet even in this advanced nation we find people following the mob rule instinct. Wherever we look we find groups supporting Hitler, Coughlins and Townsends."

"We have been hoping and praying for peace, yet on all sides there is evidence of strife. Foreigners are earnestly looking toward the Rotary International to accomplish this and bring about genuine good-will between nations," Humphrey added.

Menasha Cagers Plan for Game At New London

Bluejays Were Defeated 24-23 in First Meeting On Home Floor

Menasha—Going into the game with a 24-23 decision against them in a previous battle against New London High school, Menasha Bluejays will attempt to even the score when the two teams meet Friday evening in a Northeastern Wisconsin conference tilt at New London.

Chances of either team to win the tussle are hard to figure in view of the upsets and comparative scores of the last two weeks. Menasha has won over Kaukauna while the Kaws defeated the Stacemans in a recent game at Kaukauna. However, New London is the only team in the conference to register a win over the De Pere aggregation which won over Menasha 23 and 18 Tuesday evening.

Nader is Threat
Nader, New London forward, will be the chief threat against the Caldermen. The shifty wingman has a dead eye on field goals within the circle. Other starters for the Stacemans will be Stern, forward; Yost, center; Demming and Glocke, guards.

After Tuesday's defeat at De Pere, Coach N. A. Calder will spend remaining practice sessions on defensive tactics and floorwork. His club has been losing convincing games but only by close margins and is out to win against New London.

Wideman and Remmel will probably get the starting assignment at forwards with Fahrkrug at center. Guard positions will be filled by Godhardt and Osiewalski.

98,680 Books Drawn From Library During Last Year

Neenah — A total of 98,680 books were drawn from the Neenah Public library during 1936, according to the annual report presented by Miss May Hart, librarian, during a meeting of the library board last evening. The number represents a slight decrease from the previous year but it is not regretted because circulation decreases have been noted throughout the United States and it is an indication that people have less time for reading and are returning to work, Miss Hart said.

There were 592 new borrowers for a total of 5,487, according to the report. Cards were cancelled for 550 persons. The per capita circulation was 10.7 and the number of books drawn for each registered borrower averaged 17.5 books.

The reading room attendance increased with a total of 12,792 and 665 reference questions were answered. There were 18 story hours conducted with an attendance of 300 children.

20,953 Books

The library has a collection of 20,953 books. A total of 1,588 volumes were added this year and 607 withdrawn from circulation.

FORMER CONVICT SLAYS CAPTOR

Five hours after he had been abducted by Alois "Frenchy" Benoit (right), paroled from the Michigan state reformatory at Ionia a year ago, the bullet-riddled body of Michigan State Policeman Richards F. Hammond (left), 25, was found handcuffed to a mail box on a lonely country road near Monroe, Mich. And 20 hours after the abduction posses had captured Benoit. (Associated Press Photo) with the butt of my pistol and told him to turn onto a side road.

"The other officer (Sinn) behind came up close. I turned around and fired three shots. When I started shooting Hammond said he was going to ditch the car and I told him if he did I'd kill him sure."

"Then the other car went into the ditch and I stopped. I was going to take my partner (Smith) away from the other cop, but a truck blocked the way, so I made Hammond drive down lonely roads until he came to where I left him."

This was five miles southeast of Erie, Mich., about ten miles from the place where Benoit abandoned the blood-stained patrol car and escaped into the woods.

"I made Hammond stop," Benoit was quoted as confessing. "Then I got out and put one of the handcuffs on his wrists. When I tried to get him out of the car he put up a fight and we rolled over on the ground. I could see he was getting the best of me. Then I fired during the scuffle and he got limp. I cuffed his hands around the post (of the mail box)."

Benoit bleeding profusely from cuts on his head, insisted to officers, however, that he did not realize he had shot Trooper Hammond until the officer's body went limp and he succeeded in shackling him to the post.

Heard Police Orders

After leaving the body, Benoit said, the radio in the police car brought realization that a highway blockade had been set up which he could not hope to penetrate. He said he heard orders sending all available Michigan officers into the area, with reinforcements from Ohio and Indiana.

After a brief burst of gunfire from county and state officers, Benoit said, he abandoned the patrol car and fled on foot across a field. Later he took refuge in a barn to escape a freezing rain.

Benoit said he remained until darkness fell last night.

Then Benoit walked into a farmhouse near Federman, Mich. and at gunpoint forced Paul Balog, 56, and his son Steve, 16, to drive him in their light truck.

Another member of the Balog family raised an alarm and four state troopers participated in the capture after Benoit, at the wheel of the truck, had narrowly escaped cruising police cars by turning into alleys.

Convicted of first degree murder in the state courts, Benoit faces a mandatory life sentence, the maximum penalty in Michigan.

One of the troopers who helped capture Benoit was Corporal Harry Nelson of the Brighton post, whose home is at Iron Mountain. Hammond's death was the fourth slaying of a state policeman since the force was organized.

Benoit Surrenders

Corporal Nelson and Trooper Russell Moore saw the Balog truck going northeast at the edge of Monroe. They forced Benoit to turn onto a side road and there the troopers fired a shot into the hood of the truck. Benoit stopped the truck and got out—his hands in the air as the two officers arrived.

"You've got me, coppers," he shouted. "Yes, I'm the guy."

Anna Balog, 18-year-old daughter of the Monroe farmer, was credited with giving state police the tip that led to Benoit's capture.

The girl, ignoring her mother's protests, set out in a driving rainstorm over a soggy road to the farmhouse of a neighbor, Irvin Karns, to notify him that a stranger had appeared at the farm house about 6:45 p. m.

Steve Balog, telling of the capture, said:

"The state police seemed to be all around the car. They pulled him out and, boy was I glad."

BY QUINTON JAMES

To celebrate the signing of the Anglo-Egyptian treaty of friendship and alliance, which has been called "the strangest declaration of independence ever conceived for a nation in modern times," Egypt has issued three extra large stamps.

The date that the pact was signed in London, Aug. 26, 1936, appears in the left border of the stamps which measure 2 1/2 inches wide by slightly more than an inch deep. This long, narrow size permits reproduction of a picture of the signing. Members of the two delegations are seated about a large table, at the head of which sits Anthony Eden, England's foreign secretary. Nahas Pasha, Egypt's prime minister, headed the Egyptian delegation.

For Britain and Egypt alike, this treaty marks a new epoch in relations. It recognizes Egypt's British interests there, as well as ending the British military occupation of Egypt. The troops who evacuated Cairo had been stationed there more than half a century.

Now the two countries are allies in the protection of their common interests, and Egypt is eligible to join the League of Nations.

The three values of this set are 5-millime brown, 15-m dark violet, 20-m blue.

Little Entente Anniversary

Two current King Carol stamps of Rumania—750 and 10-lei values—have been overprinted in red "Czechoslovakia Yugoslavia 1920-1936" to celebrate the sixteenth anniversary of a defensive alliance among these three Central European states.

The Little Entente is a political organization created after the World war to bind together Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania for purposes of their common interest.

In August, 1920, the Czech foreign minister went to Belgrade and a defense treaty was concluded between Yugoslavia and the Czechoslovak republic. It bound both states in case of an unprovoked attack by Hungary on either of them, to provide mutual aid, and to refrain from making any alliance with a third power without mutual consent. At Bucharest, the foreign minister negotiated a similar alliance Rumania informed both states in September, 1920, that she recognized the same obligation.

Manchoukuo's first airmails—18 and 38-fen values—appear in a complete new set from this Far Eastern country. For regular postage there are 15 values ranging from 1 fen to 1 yuan. This is the first basic change in Manchoukuo stamp designs since the country began issuing stamps in 1932.

Zanzibar honors its sultan, Kalif bin Harub, on his silver jubilee with four bi-colored stamps each bearing his portrait.

In 1911, Kalif bin Harub became ruler of this British protectorate which occupies an island off the east coast of Africa.

On these rather large stamps, the sultan's head is printed in black within a medallion in the lower right hand corner. A massive doorway fills the background. The values are 10-cent olive green, 20-cent purple, 50-cent orange and 30-cent blue, each combined with black.

How to Ease a Cold Quickly

1. Take 2 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat rawness and soreness almost instantly.

Get Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving Bayer Aspirin. Take 2 Tablets

The modern way to ease a cold is this: Two Bayer Aspirin tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

Try this way. Your doctor, we know, will endorse it. For it is a quick, effective means of combating a cold. Ask for Bayer Aspirin by the full name at your druggist's—not for "aspirin" alone.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three BAYER tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The Bayer Aspirin you take internally will act to combat the fever and pains which usually accompany colds. The gargle will provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain, acting like a local anesthetic on the irritated membrane of your throat.

Wings For Sally By BAILEY WOLFE

SYNOPSIS: Philip Page, dark, serious young publisher of the warrenton Courier, falls in love with his attractive society editor, Sally Warren, who can't forget her former fiancé, Sally is staying with wealthy Mary Morris who pursues Philip. In his campaign for better living conditions, Philip is fighting Mary's property-owning father, Giles Benton, a detective engaged by Morris, accuses McDonald, one of Morris' discharged mill workers, with firing the Morris-owned theater and has McDonald arrested.

Chapter 34

SALLY EAVESDROPS

"I'm sick of the whole business," Mr. Morris was saying. "I want it pushed through in a hurry. If this is the guilty man, I want him convicted and sent away."

"He's the guilty one, all right," said Giles Benton. "And when he's convicted, you've won your fight in Milltown. This fellow Page won't have another word to say about cleaning up slums. These workmen will see what a rotten leader McDonald's been for them. They'll settle down, and you'll have no more trouble from that quarter."

"I hope you're right," said Mr. Morris wearily. "I don't seem to be able to buck things the way I used to."

Sally sat motionless in the window seat, hidden by the long draperies. She had been too startled to move when the men first entered the room. Now it was impossible to leave. She had heard too much. Nothing could explain her eavesdropping. Miserable and terrified, she crouched where she was, hoping with all her heart that the men would leave soon.

"You're pretty sure McDonald's also the one who has been leaving threats here at the house?" asked Mr. Morris after a short pause. "Have you any reason to suspect the threats come from any other quarter?" asked Giles.

Mr. Morris moved restlessly and waited a few moments before he answered. "No," he said at last, "I don't know where else they could come from."

"Then," said Giles, "they must come from McDonald." His oily voice was triumphant, as if he had both McDonald and Mr. Morris in a corner. Sally had never disliked him so much as she did at this moment.

"A rich man has many enemies," said Mr. Morris sighing. "I started as a water boy in a factory. I've worked for every cent I've got. But nowadays a rich man is looked on as nothing short of a thief. The town has forgotten what I've done for it." He got up from his chair. "I'm tired. I believe I'll go to bed. It's very hard for me to get sleep of late."

A Mysterious Phone Call

Sally waited anxiously for Giles to follow Mr. Morris. She felt suddenly sorry for Mary's father. But Giles did not leave. Instead, he waited till Mr. Morris had gone upstairs. Then he went to the telephone. His voice was low, as if he feared being overheard.

"Hello—Marty?" Sally could hear every word he said. "Everything's O. K. I've got a hunch the old man suspects it's you, but he won't say so. We've got him where we want him. He'll come across all right—plenty. That's enough. I'm phoning from the house. Yep. Want you to get out of town and stay out. Right now. See you in a couple of days. So long."

At last Giles was leaving. Sally heard his footsteps going upstairs. She was stiff with sitting in a cramped position, and her brain whirled with the talk she had just heard. It was nothing important. And yet—there was something going on behind Mr. Morris' back. She had no proof, but she suspected Giles of double dealing with the man who had employed him.

The next morning early Mary drove Sally to the McDonald's to get May and take her to the hospital. But they were too late. The children told them May had got worse during the night and that the doctor had come for her himself. They drove to the hospital. May had just gone to the operating room.

Home Ownership Is Good Index Of Community

Indicates Its Character, Social and Business Progress, Speaker Says

New London—The extent of thrift and home ownership in a community is the index to its character and social and business progress, stockholders of the New London Building and Loan association were told by Carl Taylor, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Building and Loan league of Milwaukee, in a talk yesterday.

Thrift builds character, Taylor said, and the formula to saving is to spend less than you earn. Tenant living is the principle cause of juvenile delinquency today and the establishment of homes in a community is fostered by thrift management of one's earnings, regardless of how small. Teach thrift to your community and you will stand out in progress, he emphasized.

About 90 stockholders attended the banquet which was served by women of the VFW auxiliary. The three directors whose terms expired were reelected to office for another year. They are H. B. Cristy, F. R. Smith and Ben Hartquist. The report of Ormond W. Capener, secretary, was favorably received. H. B. Cristy, president, presided and Capener acted as toastmaster.

Entertainment was provided by high school band members, Winston Wells with a baritone solo and Edward Kringle with a tuba solo, both accompanied by Mrs. Orr Glandt.

TRANSFORMS PARLOR INTO HOME ART STUDIO

After many years of copy work and painting of household novelties, Miss Gertrude Ostermier, New London, has realized a grade school ambition and is in partnership with a Milwaukee artist in a studio there. She also has transformed the parlor of her home at New London into a studio and does most of her work there. The finished work is taken to Milwaukee for prospective buyers. Miss Ostermier sold her first painting in 1923, but her list of sales now includes many copies of famous paintings, besides the knick-knacks she sells for household uses. (Post-Crescent Photo)

New London Artist Wins Recognition With Art Copies and Novelty Work

New London—Few New London people know that Miss Gertrude Ostermier, who lives with her brother, Dr. G. A. Ostermier, at 210 W. Spring street, has earned recognition in her accomplishments with water colors, oil paints and plain furniture enamel. Miss Ostermier has transformed the parlor of her home into a studio, where she has worked daily for years.

Her best work is represented in enlarged copies in oil or water color of art work found on calendars, candy boxes and similar articles. She does some original work, but prefers to copy the best in art. She has copied perfectly in color a large plaque of the "Last Supper," a work which she prizes highly among her achievements.

When a child, Miss Gertrude liked to paint in Catholic grade school and won prizes with her work at New London fairs. She acquired her skill and knowledge through experience and development of natural ability. Her only tutor was some supervision she received for several seasons from Mrs. Mark Catlin of Appleton, a Chicago university art graduate.

She sold her first painting in 1923 and since that time has disposed of many others. Six years ago she started painting novelties for use in the home. These include soap cans, clown twine holders, door stops, laundry bags and other knick-knacks.

Six weeks ago she opened the "Stadium Gift Shop" at 410 N. Third-fifth street in Milwaukee, in partnership with a Milwaukee artist. Already this college business is too large for the small shop and Miss Ostermier went to Milwaukee recently to study the possibilities of a larger location.

BY VICTOR EUBANK
New York.—A rather weary stock market received late stimulation today when the steels, including U. S. and Bethlehem, rallied a point or so more under a burst of buying in the final hour.

Automotive issues, with the exception of General Motors, also stiffened and many other earlier indifferent leaders stepped out on the upside for gains ranging from fractions to 2. Transfers were around 3,000,000 shares.

While the General Motors strike deadlock persisted, Wall Street leaned to the belief a peaceful settlement would be negotiated through intervention of federal authorities.

At the same time traders were not averse to cashing in some of their profits which piled up yesterday.

Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Homestake Mining shares moved up 15 points on a few sales.

Higher were L. duum Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible, U. S. Pipe and Foundry, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, North American Aviation, Curtiss Wright "A." Consolidated Edison, North American.

Slaughter Steers Sharply Higher

Price Advances Dime; Hog Quotations Also Advance in Chicago

Chicago.—(P)—With the average price of slaughter steers now around the highest level in more than a year and a half, the top rose a dime today to $14.50, with one exception the highest price since $15 was paid late in January a year ago.

Active buying on the part of order buyers and shippers forced a modest advance in strictly good to prime steers.

Hog receipts also have been less, largely because of icy roads. Today's run fell 2,000 head below the advance estimate, and as a result prices advanced 10 to 15 cents to a $10.45 top.

Fat lambs were unchanged to a shade lower.

New Uses, Heavy Demand Diminish Supply of Honey

Three-Fourths of Commercial Producers Sold Out In Mid-December

New uses and increased demand for honey have materially reduced the bulk supply, a department of agriculture report to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent, states.

Before the middle of December the bureau of agricultural economics reported that the 1936 commercial crop was largely disposed of, and that there was less honey available than ever before at that season of the year.

By mid-December more than three-fourths of the commercial producers of honey were either completely sold out or they had only enough honey on hand to supply the local demand for the remainder of the season.

The demand for honey has been growing rapidly. Use of honey has increased so greatly in new products, especially in the baking field, that supplies have become very tight. Wheat bread made with honey, which has been on the market for not more than 2 years, has been taking millions of pounds of this product. A baker's consulting bureau that furnished one formula for this kind of bread estimated some months ago that 6 million pounds of honey a year are being used in this formula alone.

One interesting point in the honey situation is the scarcity of comb honey, which is even more scarce than extracted honey. The shortage of comb honey is partly due to the large quantities which have been exported recently to England and Scotland. Another reason is that beekeepers in recent years have been turning increasingly to the production of extracted honey.

Probably not more than a fourth as much comb honey is being marketed now as 25 years ago. Several factors have contributed to this. First, bee-keepers can produce larger quantities of honey by returning the empty combs to the bees and give them a chance to fill them again with nectar. Also because of drought in recent years, it has been difficult to produce comb honey of high quality, especially in the plain states which formerly sold comb honey in large volume. Finally, it takes better beekeeping and more effort to produce good comb honey than it does to produce the extracted product, and the present tendency in beekeeping is to reduce costs to a minimum, especially the time required in beekeeping operations, so that a larger number of colonies can be handled by one person.

Rural Education Cost Low, Claim

School District Treasurer Addresses Parent-Teacher Association

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—The relatively low cost of education in rural districts was emphasized by Leonard A. Otto, treasurer of school district No. 7, town of Brillion, in speaking on "Financing the Rural School" to the Parent-Teacher association of Mc Kinley school at its monthly meeting here Tuesday evening. While the average cost of education is 57 cents per day per child in the nation and 58 cents in the state of Wisconsin, the average cost of rural education in Calumet county is only 35 cents per child per day, 193 cents in the town of Brillion and 14 cents per child per day in district No. 7, according to figures cited by the speaker.

The program committee reported Tuesday evening that Mrs. Margaret Irish of Stockbridge has been secured as guest speaker for the next monthly meeting on Feb. 9, when the association is planning an observance of Founder's day, the fortieth anniversary of the origin of the Parent-Teacher movement. Mrs. Irish was Miss Margaret Monahan of Chilton was teacher of what is today McKinley school during the 1901-1902 term.

The Story of the Popes

Crusaders Win New Power, Glory for Church

By the AP Feature Service
THE Crusades, and reforms within the Catholic church, gave the papacy its "grand epoch" in the first half of the 13th century.

Preached by Pope Urban II, the Crusades were a phenomenal mass movement launched to wrest the Holy Land from infidel hands. Hundreds of thousands flocked to the banner of the church to make the long, perilous pilgrimage across the continent. To them was promised forgiveness of their sins for the work they were about to accomplish.

The combination military-religious pilgrimages which were the Crusades—so called from the crosses worn by participants—lasted from 1096 to 1291. Jerusalem was captured, an event which stirred Europe to new religious fervor.

French Kings Fight Rome
At the same time, overhauling of the church structure gave to the Vatican the sole right to make episcopal confirmations outside of Rome, a victory over the personal aggrandizement of local religious and secular leaders; and doctrines favoring the Holy See over church councils became the "immutable law" of the Christian world.

In all Europe, except France—which, incidentally, gave the Crusades their strongest impetus and support—the papal sway was supreme. But the French kings, refusing to admit that their sovereignty depended on the pope stayed outside. In a contest for supremacy, the French kings won.

Clement V, pope from 1305 to 1314 who had been Archbishop of Bordeaux, never even went to Rome after his elevation, transferring his residence to Avignon, France. Instead, there he died. It was the beginning of the "Babylonian Exile" of the popes.

Papacy Declines
John XXII, successor of Clement V, also resided at Avignon, as did Benedict XII and Clement VI. Innocent VI prepared the way for the return to Rome, and his successor, Urban V, actually went there, but came back to Avignon to die.

Gregory XI, the last pope France gave to the church, entered Rome on January 17, 1377.

Now came the Great Schism. The election of Urban VI, in the first conclave held in Rome in 75 years was impugned by cardinals who balked at his zeal for reform and were credited with longing for the worldly freedom of Avignon. They thereupon elected Clement VII as anti-pope, which split the church and weakened its prestige. The allegiance of Europe was divided.

In 1409 occurred the Triple Schism when the Council of Pisa deposed both popes and elevated Alexander V to the papacy.

Rome Rises in Influence
But the Vatican had strong recuperative powers, and it withstood even the shock of Luther and the Reformation—which resulted in masses of Christians breaking away from Rome, and the revolt of Henry VIII of England.

Under such Renaissance popes as Nicholas V, Rome became the world center of literature and art, as it was of ecclesiastical life.

In 1508 the foundation stone of St. Peter's was laid; in 1626 Urban VIII consecrated the cathedral on which 20 popes had labored. Here new popes are crowned.

The great age of Catholic restoration and reform was headed by Pius V, who united Christendom against the Turkish peril, liquidated at Lepanto. Missions went forth to America, China, Japan and India.

Reign of Pius X Notable
The 18th century saw a decline of the papacy, the 19th, a resurgence. In the 20th, the peace efforts of Pius X and Benedict XV distinguished their reigns.

To Pius XI goes the honor of concluding a treaty with Italy—settling a long dispute during which the popes had not ventured from Vatican City, of modernizing the Vatican of pleading for brotherhood in a time of dissension among men.

Rome no longer holds the temporal power it gained in early centuries. But the Catholic church is strong spiritually in every continent—men everywhere respect its efforts, follow closely the activities of its leader, in sickness or health.

Tomorrow—The work of a Pope.

NO VIOLENT DEATHS

Carlsbad, N. M. — (AP) — For 12 months there has not been a single death by violence in Carlsbad. Police Chief Braddock said a safety campaign, in which two extra policemen and an extra patrol car were added to the police department, probably is responsible for the unusual record. The city has a population of approximately 4,000.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or nasty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lamboago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Don's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Don's Pills.
